Cecil Lyon.

Col. Cecil Lyon, former national committeeman from Texas, who lost his job because he was for Teddy,
is leading the third party movement in the Lone Star state. Col. Lyon is now in Chicago to attend the National Progressive convention.He breathes the spirit of optimism and says the Bull Moose will make a strong run in his state.vention this afternoon to make his "confession of faith" address he faced one of the greatest audiences ever gathered in the Coliseum.There was a small blaze in the gallery following the taking of a flashlight photograph. A canvas covering over an electric light had caught fire.
The blaze was soon extinguished.The demonstration of spectators and delegates had formed an impossible parade down town and marched to the convention.Four or five bands came with them and for a time the air was fairly blue with conflicting tunes. Women delegates to the convention again were the center of interest today.Many of their leaders in the suffrage movement gathered outside the Coliseum distributing tracts and emblems of the suffragette cause.KANSAS FIGHTER AT
T. R. CONVENTION

Governor Stubbs.

Gov. Stubbs, of Kansas, who put up such a spectacular fight for Teddy at the Republican national convention in June, is one of the picturesque figures at the National Progressive convention in Chicago this week. Stubbs says the Bull Moose will take over the Republican party entire in his state. The governor wants to go to the U. S. senate, and will try to replace Senator Curtis, whose term expires next year.Colonel Roosevelt arrived at the Coliseum at 12:47 and there was great cheering as he appeared on the platform. He waved his hand in acknowledgment of the greeting and the cheering continued. The Grand Army life and drum corps on the stage joining in the din.In the midst of it he stepped onto the insulated speaking platform under the big sounding board. He smiled his appreciation of the demonstration and bowed right and left, with a broad grin as he waved greetings to friends on the stage and floor.The band in its far away loft at the end of the great hall was playing judging from the antics of the leaders, but scarcely a strain of music could be heard.In the midst of the uproar an Oklahoma delegate tore the state's standard from its place and strutted up the center aisle. In a minute the aisles were filled with a shrieking, hysterical crowd of men and women.
When the crowd quieted down a flashlight picture of the scene was taken. Col. Roosevelt had spoken but a few words before he began to inject new matter in his prepared address.

He said: "We want to say to those who want their conservatism that we are the real conservatives."The delegates sat in somewhat amazed silence as the colonel paused.

There was a great cheer as he added:
"For the only wise conservative is the wise progressive."Temporary Chairman Beveridge reached the stage shortly after twelve.
Ten minutes later the delegates and sections were completely filled. As on yesterday the party representatives filled in the period of waiting with songs and party yells. Occasionally there came the long, low
"Moo" of the bull moose.The Colorado delegation appeared today with a blue banner reading,
"Colorado for Roosevelt." The women delegates in various state organizations stood upon chairs with the men and joined in the cheers and songs which kept things in an uproar until the gavel fell at 12:35.Suddenly the Colorado folk sprang a big sign and carried it about the hall. It read: "No more Guggenheim.
No more divine. No more 'Angel Archie' for us. Down with the bosses."They explained that by "Angel Archie" they meant A. M. Stevenson of that state. George W. Perkins was elected national committeeman for the national progressive party by the New York delegation today.Rev. Father Andrew Spetz then offered the prayer. The audience applauded the brevity of the priest's part. In the latter end of the hallPINCHOT AT BULL MOOSE CONVENTION

Gifford Pinchot.

Of course, Gifford Pinchot is attending the Bull Moose convention at Chicago. "Where he leads I'll follow," sings Giff when Teddy's name is mentioned. Pinchot is a somewhat rare specimen of Bull Moose in that he has considerable money which he is anxious to put into the movement. His cash will doubtless be accepted gratefully by the Bull Moosers, since it will be badly needed were many empty seats.

Chairman Beveridge read a telegram from Col. William R. Nelson of the Kansas City Star. It was dated Magnolia, Miss., and was as follows:
"Lord, how I wish I were with you.
What a great day the launching of party of imagination, hope and prospects. We can afford to give the other fellows their memories and disappointments. The past has no interest for us. The future is our fruit."In part, Colonel Roosevelt said as follows:Mr. Roosevelt's speech strikes a keynote for his followers and supporters in the new party. It lays down the plan of battle to be waged by the National Progressive party. He discusses those principles under twelve subdivisions, namely: The Helplessness of the Old Parties; The Right of the People to Rule; The Courts and the People; Constructive Control of the Trusts; Rights of the Wage-Worker; The Farmer; The Tariff;
The High Cost of Living; Currency; Conservation; Alaska and International Affairs. "The two old parties," he said, "are husks, with no real soul within either, divided on artificial lines, boss-ridden and privilege-controlled, each a jumble of incongruous elements and neither daring to speak out wisely and fearlessly what shouldGARFIELD AT BULL MOOSE CONVENTION

James R. Garfield.

James R. Garfield, of Ohio, is one of the most enthusiastic delegates
at the National Progressive convention in Chicago. He predicts all kinds of success for Teddy in November, and even puts Ohio in the Roosevelt column. Garfield was secretary of the interior during Roosevelt's last administration, and probably has been promised his old job back again in case the voters again put the colonel in the White Housebe said on the vital issues of the day."
As opposed to this incongruity and incoherence of action he asserted that the National Progressive platform will be "a contract with the people," with definite and concrete provisions to be carried out if the people ratify the contract on election day as exactly and honestly "as if it were actually enforced under the law."OF COURSE SENATOR DIXON IS THERE

Senator Dixon.

Neither the Republican nor the Democratic platforms or managers show any adequate recognition of the mighty fact "that we are now in the midst of a great economic evolution. This irresistible movement for economic change and improvement must be guided by 'both common sense and the highest ethical standards.'" In order to prevent reasonable evolution from becoming dangerous revolution
"The men who presided over the Chicago and Baltimore Conventions and the great bosses who controlled the two Conventions—Mr. Root and Mr.
Parker, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Murphy,
Mr. Penrose and Mr. Taggart, Mr.
Guggenheim and Mr. Sullivan—certainly from one another, of course, on different points, but these are the differences which one corporation lawyer has with another corporation lawyer when acting for different corporations."The Right of the People to Rule.
"The actions of the Chicago Convention, and to an only less degree of the Baltimore Convention, have shown in striking fashion how little the people do rule under our present conditions." In order to assure this popular rule Mr. Roosevelt urged the adoption of Presidential primaries, popular rule Mr. Roosevelt urged the adoption of an efficient corrupt practices act, qualified use of the initiative, referendum, and recall.Under the head of courts Mr. Roosevelt strongly emphasizes the necessity of the sovereign people preserving a check on every branch of public service. Under this head Mr. Roosevelt reiterates his now well-known views regarding the courts.In addition to punishment for wrong-doing by the trusts, the imperative demand is effective and complete regulation. The views of President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, in his scientific work on trust regulation are in harmony with the program of the National Progressives.
"The present conditions of business cannot be accepted as satisfactory."
The reason for this is explained in
Mr. Roosevelt's opinion by the fact that "those dealing with the subject have attempted to divide into two camps, each as unwise as the other."The tendency of those now in control of the Republican party is to give special privileges to "big business," and to correct the evils of such a course when they become crying, by sporadic lawsuits under the Anti-Trust Law. The tendency of the Democrats, judged both by their record in Congress and by the Democratic platform, is to abolish all business of any size or efficiency, on the ground that all business is badness, and littleness and weakness a sign of virtue.It is imperative to the welfare of our people that we enlarge and extend our foreign commerce. We are pre-eminently fitted to do this because as a people we have developed high skill in the art of manufacturing; our business men are strong executives;
strong organizers. In every way possible our Federal Government should co-operate in this important matter.Referring to the opening sentence of his address, namely, "that we are now in the midst of a great economic revolution," Mr. Roosevelt presents an advanced and comprehensive plan to insure the rights and better conditions for labor. He gives it the paramount in his speech. "The first charge upon the industrial statesmanship of the day," he said, "is to prevent human waste.""The Country Life Commission should be revived with greatly increased power; its abandonment was a severe blow to our people. The welfare of the farmer is a basic need of this Nation." The country school should be brought in touch with country life.The Tariff.
On the tariff he says: "I believe in a protective tariff, but I believe it as a principle approached from a standpoint of the interests of the whole people, and not as a bundle of preference to be given favorite individuals."
He believes the American people favor the principle of a protective tariff, but are in rebellion against the wrongdoing and unjust application of that policy and the abuses in past legislation."The cost of living," says Mr.
Roosevelt, "has risen during the last few years out of all proportion to the increase of most salaries and wages."
What is first necessary is "fearless, intelligent, and searching inquiry into the whole subject, made absolutely by a non-partisan body of experts with no prejudice to warp their minds, no

ORDERS TO REBELSMarines in Nicaragua Order Rebels To Deliver Up Steamboats Belonging to Americans.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Juan del Sur, Nicaragua, Aug.
6.—The American blue jackets and marines who were landed from the United States gunboat Annapolis at Corinto Saturday night and who are now in Managua have ordered General Luis Mena, former minister of war, and now leader of the revolutionaries to deliver up immediately the steamboats which are run by an American company. George P. Weitzel, the United States minister has sent a note to General Mena advising him that the United States government recognized only the government of President Diaz. A large quantity of arms has been brought from Corinto to Managua to enable the government to take the offensive against the followers of General Mena.More Marines Ordered.
Washington, Aug. 6.—Marines from Panama have been ordered to Nicaragua to supplement the force of blue jackets now in Managua guarding Americans and their property. The collier Justin now steaming from San Juan del Sur today was today ordered to Panama to embark 350 marines for Corinto.POLL A HEAVY VOTE
AT KANSAS PRIMARYNational Interest Attached to Today's Election As Result of Supreme Court Decision.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Topeka, Kans., Aug. 6.—Fair weather and unusual interest gave promise of a heavy vote in the Kansas statewide primary today. Both parties will name candidates for United States senator, for congress, and a full state ticket. Presidential electors also will be chosen.National interest is attached to the contest for the selection of republican presidential electors because of the recent decision of the United States supreme court permitting the names of electors who have announced their preference for Theodore Roosevelt to be entered under the head of the republican party pending the decision
by a full court.TWO DAYS WILL END
DARROW TESTIMONYRebuttal of Prosecution Is About All That Remains in Taking of Evidence in Eribery Case.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Los Angeles, Aug. 6.—Two more days may end the taking of evidence in the bribery trial of Clarence S.
Darrow. Little now remains in the way of testimony as the rebuttal evidence of the prosecution is expected to be without any of the sensational features that have accompanied the case.DOES NOT FAVOR MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC LIGHTING TODAY[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Aug. 6.—Because the council believes that it is rushing things in proposing the purchase of the electric light plant when it has owned the water plant less than a year, the proposition to submit the question at a special election in November will probably be turned down.RAILROADS PAID TAXES TO STATE TREASURER TODAY[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Aug. 6.—Over $100,000 in railroad taxes was paid to the state treasurer today. The amounts are as follows: C. M. & St. Paul $50, 000; Great Northern $45,450; Grand Trunk $2,392; La Crosse and Southeastern $1,385.The state tax commission gave a hearing today to the village of Kilbuck, Wis., against the Wisconsin
Cotton Paper Company of this city.
The company is the sitting as a board of arbitration to adjust the taxes due to the different localities for 1909, 1910, and 1911.FEAR MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS

Steamboat Springs, Colo., Aug. 6.— Fear is expressed here for the safety of four women and men socially prominent in Steamboat Springs who started for the summit of Etna mountain Friday night to view the sunrise Sunday morning. No word has been received from the party and it is feared they may have been attacked by wild animals in Buffalo park or may have perished from the cold. Each member of the party rode a horse and carried provisions for only two days.YOUTH INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT MAY RECOVER[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Aug. 6.—Physicians shortly before noon today held out some hope that Fred Walzinger, driver of an automobile which struck a telephone pole this morning and killed two young people, would live. He was internally injured. He was a high school student, son of Charles Walzinger, a prominent confectioner.STATEWIDE PRIMARIES ON MISSOURI TICKET[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
St. Louis, Aug. 6.—Missouri voters began casting their ballots in the state-wide primary at six o'clock this morning. Five democrats and three republicans are seeking the nomination for governor.OPPOSITION TO TAFT

Indianapolis, Aug. 6.—Opposition to the republican party and President Taft is "fomented because he prosecuted trusts," according to the declaration of the platform prepared by the resolutions committee to be presented to the Indiana republican convention in this city today. Woman suffrage was endorsed in the resolutions, but the majority of the committee indicated that a dissenting report might be presented to the convention. Other planks favored a workmen's compensation law, public utilities commission, one term of six years for president, tariff in accordance with results of investigation of the commission.GAMBLERS RECEIVE THREATS OF DEATH"Bald Jack Rose" and Partners Who

Threats Made.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Aug. 6.—Death threats have been repeatedly sent to "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Vallon, who have made confessions showing alleged relations between the police and the gamblers and all three prisoners are in a state of panic over fears that their lives may be taken. The three gamblers say they expect to be killed if they are taken through the streets to court. A sum of $50,000 is said to have been raised by police officers to defend Becker and it is asserted, if necessary, a larger sum will be forthcoming.BOY SHOT WHILE PLAYING IN A "WILD WEST" CAMP[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Racine, Aug. 6.—Grouped about a camp fire in true western fashion, a dozen boys ranging in age from 8 to 11 years, yesterday afternoon proceeded to fry wieners, bake potatoes and indulge in pastimes such as are supposed to entertain residents of the "wild and woolly." One of the boys went home and procured a small caliber rifle. Endeavoring to explode an imaginary Indian, Reinhold Striffling, snapped the trigger and accidentally shot Arthur Barthelson in the thigh. The camp immediately disbanded. At the hospital today young Barthelson is reported as not dangerously injured.MANITOWOC DEMOCRATS NAME COMPLETE TICKET[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Aug. 6.—Democrats are the only ones to name a complete county ticket for the primary next month, the republicans leaving three vacancies on the party ticket and the socialists the same number. The second choice act will apply to but one office here, that of the nomination for treasurer on the democratic ticket, there being four candidates on the ticket.ARRESTED FOR PRAYING; WAS REALLY INTOXICATED[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Neenah, Aug. 6.—The police of Ne-enah sprung a new one last night when they arrested a man for praying. The man, who is William Redden, was drunk, however, and that accounts for his imprisonment in the city jail. He rolled out of a saloon and bumped into a religious meeting on a street corner and created general disturbance of the peace.SERIOUS FIRE LOSS AT VIRGINIA TOWN TODAY[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Aug. 6.—Culpeper, Va., 60 miles from Washington, was partly destroyed by fire early today.
The telephone and telegraph station were among the first to burn and a railroad operator before being driven from his key said the business portion had been wiped out, but the fire was under control.BOY'S NECK WAS BROKEN
WHEN HORSE KICKED HIM[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Grand Rapids, Aug. 6.—Ernest Buss, the eleven year old son of Fred Buss of Hanson, was accidentally killed yesterday while unharassing a horse hitched to a cultivator. It is thought the horse kicked the boy and the boy's neck was broken. The imprint of the horse's hoof was found on the right side of the head near the ear.FARMER DIED OF INJURIES

Denver, Aug. 6.—The 27th biennial convention of the Knights of Pythias, which opened here today, is said to be the most extensively attended convention in the history of the organization. About 1,000 members of the order, many accompanied by their families, are attending. The program of the opening session included addresses by Gov. Shafritz, Mayor Ar-old and Judge George M. Hanson of FEDERAL SOLDIERSDetachment of Mexican Troops Trapped

by Revolting Indians Near Ixtlan.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mexico City, Aug. 6.—Revolting Sierra Juarez Indians in northern Oaxaca have surrounded a federal detachment near Ixtlan according to reports reaching here this morning.
Unless the troops can cut their way out of the trap they probably will fall victims of the Indians because it is reported here the Indians have suspended personal guarantees. Every federal soldier captured is excluded
unless he happens to be of high rank.
Then he is tortured before being put to death. Two soldiers who were caught near Ixtape were stretched on a rack. Then Indians with sharp knives pared off the bottoms of their feet after which the soldiers were forced to walk long distances. One died under the torture, the other immediately he was hanged. The Indians have been in revolt several weeks. They claim they were not properly treated while negotiating with the government for settlement of a land dispute.WOULD STOP SALE
OF FAKE JEWELSAppleton Jeweler Urges Legislation Against Fraudulent Jewelry
Advertisements.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kansas City, Aug. 6.—A plea for state and national legislation against fraudulent cheap jewelry advertisement which lure with such offering as
"a gold watch, 21 jewels for $3.25"
was made by Gustave Keller of Appleton, Wis., at the opening of the 75th annual convention of the American Retail Jeweler's Association here today. "We stand for the protection of the public and of the honest dealer," said Mr. Keller. The gold question is important. Solid gold is 24 karats, but very often a purchased buys an article that looks like the genuine and yet it is only 4 karats. It is represented to be solid gold and at present we have no law to stop the misrepresentation.NEW TRANS-ANDEAN RAILWAY IS OPENEDLine 275 Miles Long—Constructed in Accordance With Treaties Of Chili and Bolivia.[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 6.—Two important events in the history of Bolivia were celebrated throughout the republic today, the anniversary of the independence of Bolivia La Paz. The line, which is 275 miles long, has been constructed in accordance with treaty arrangements entered into between the Chilean and Bolivian governments in 1904. The work was actually begun by the former government, but in April, 1909, a British firm undertook to complete the line and supply the rolling stock for $2, 950,000. The time named in the contract was three years, an extremely short period in view of the great engineering difficulties that had to be overcome in building the line which crosses the Andes at an altitude of 14,000 feet above sea level.TOTAL ABSTAINERS

ception for Delegates.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 6.—The forty-second annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America opened here today at the University of Notre Dame. Many of the delegates are the university and various state organizations, among them
the Catholic Temperance Cadets and the Paulist Fife and Drum Corps of Chicago, are encamped upon the University campus. This evening a reception to the visiting delegates and their friends will be given at the Oliver Hotel, at which occasion the Rev.
John Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame University, will deliver a welcoming address. The program for tomorrow includes a pontifical convention mass in the morning, followed by the first business session. In the evening there will be a public rally in the Auditorium Theatre at South Bend. A regatta mass for all dead members of the society in America will be celebrated on Thursday morning and the business of the convention will be brought to a close.ORDER RESTORED AGAIN IN

Morse bill adding to the state of Wisconsin the islands in the inland lakes in northern Wisconsin. It has passed the lower house. Its effect will be to add 216 small islands to the forestry reserve in Vilas and Oneida counties. They contain 467 acres and when in the state's domain will come under its conservative policy. Private companies are said to have gone far to denude them of their timber and their natural attractiveness.
Crualers of the state forestry department have recently been examining the state lands in southern Oneida county with the ultimate purpose of having them listed and placed on the market, much of them being more valuable for agricultural than for forestry uses.SCOLDING BY THEIR AUNT; YOUTHS TAKE POCKET-BOOK[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Manitowoc, Aug. 6.—Because they had been scolded by the aunt of one of the boys, whom they had visited,
is the reason given by Erwin Dieball
and Theodore Hills, Chicago boys who are held by the police for the theft of a check book and forgery of checks at Two Rivers. The boys have confessed and said that the book was stolen in preparation for scoldings given them by their aunt.DID YOU EVER BUY DI-RECT FROM THE FACTORY?By J. R. HAMILTON.
Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.For some reason or other, there is an attractiveness, both to women and men, about "getting things at the factory price," or "buying direct from the factory"
that surpasses any other pocketbook achievement we may attain to.We all know that the high cost of most things is due to the high cost of distribution and not to the cost of production itself. And so the factory cost is usually our goal of economy.We know that all this intricate machinery of business is necessary but naturally we dislike to pay the toll.Now, if we only knew it, there is one month in the year when all of us can buy at "factory cost"— or at least so near to factory cost that the saving is immense.And that month is this month of August.We have been dealing with the clearance sales of retail stores.
Now we come to the clearances of the factories themselves.The manufacturer or wholesaler is no different from the retailer.
Each of them has stocks that must be cleared. The retailer is the natural outlet for the manufacturer. Through his aisles and over his counters only can the maker clear his stocks.In business every man looks out for himself first. So the retailer clears his surplus stocks before he allows the surplus stocks of the manufacturer to come through.Up to the present time you have been buying from the clearance sales of retail stores alone. But now the stores have cleared themselves and allowed the manufacturers' surplus stocks to come through.Today when you walk into a retail store you are virtually walking into a factory to "buy your goods. Where you paid three profits before, you are paying a little less than one right now."

BAND CONCERTS AND VAUDEVILLE SHOWS TO INCREASE FUND

Bower City Band Boys Donate Services to Aid Playground Plans of Greater Third Ward Carnival Company.

This evening there will be an impromptu concert by the members of the Bower City band at the vaudeville entertainment which is to be given by the organization of young girls and boys in the Third ward for the purpose of raising funds to equip a public playground. The members of the band have donated their services and the entertainment planned under the direction of Robert Carle, manager of the young band of entertainers, includes many catchy dances by the young ladies, a black-faced girls' minstrel show and an olio of specialties that will be well worth seeing.

Tomorrow evening the Moose band of twenty-one pieces, will give a concert at the grounds, having voted at their band meeting last evening to donate their services, and the performance given this evening, with several changes and additions, will be rendered in the large tent which is erected on the vacant lot between South Second and South Third, on Jackson street. The company have several stands at which refreshments and novelties can be obtained and trust the public will aid them in their endeavor of raising funds to equip a playground, part of the money raised last week by their carnival being already deposited in the bank for this purpose.

TWENTY FRESH AIR CHILDREN EXPECTED

Boys and Girls From Chicago Tenements Will Arrive Wednesday to Spend Two Weeks at Rock County Homes.

Twenty boys and girls from the Chicago tenements will arrive in Janesville, Wednesday morning at 10:35 at the St. Paul depot for a two weeks' vacation at various homes in Rock county. Miss Eleanor King, of the philanthropic committee of the Summer Club of Household Economies went to Chicago today to meet the children most of whom are secured by "The Commons," and will accompany them to this city.

All of the children are under twelve years of age. They will be given the best of care at the various homes to which they are assigned and will be provided with clothes by members of the club who do not take children. It has been the club's plan to entertain a delegation from Chicago each year and much interest is taken in the proposition by the members of the club and others. Some of the children who were here last year will return this season at the special request of the club members who entertained them. As many as four children are taken into some homes while others receive two or three. At some homes but one child is entertained.

Owing to the fact that there has been a delay in securing the transportation from the United Charities, Chicago, the exact date of the arrival of the children was not learned until today. All club members who will take care of children are requested to be at the St. Paul depot tomorrow morning. As has been the custom in previous years a picnic for all the children will undoubtedly be planned before their return to Chicago and every effort will be made to make their stay here a pleasant one. Each child will be sent home with an outfit of clothes ready for the opening of the fall term of school.

The members of the philanthropic committee of the club who have entire charge of securing the children and placing them in the various homes are: Mrs. George H. Ruml, chairman, Mrs. Racey, residing near Beloit, and Miss Eleanor King.

CLINTON

Clinton, Aug. 6.—E. B. Hawks has opened a branch real estate office in the Ashland block, Rockford, under the name of the Inter-State Investment Co., with Eugene Gilbert formerly of this place in charge.

Glen R. Crabtree has been home for a few days packing his household goods, preparatory to moving to Port Arkison.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Sawyer of East Lake Michigan, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. Switzer.

Mrs. and Mrs. P. R. Helmer went to Milwaukee this morning to attend the meeting of the State Press Association.

Mrs. Nina Jones, nee Reese, of Evansville, is visiting friends here for a few days. Mrs. Jones formerly taught in the kindergarten department of the Clinton schools.

A large force of men began laying the new 100-lb. steel rails on the C. & N. W. Ry. yesterday morning.

Paul Everhart, who has been working in Madison, is visiting his mother and other relatives here.

Otto Wollerman, wife and child, of Belvidere, arrived last evening to visit his parents for a few days. Miss Emma Chart spent Saturday and Sunday visiting friends at Fort Atkinson.

Mrs. J. R. Switzer and guests, Mr. and Mrs. Sawyer, visited Janesville and Beloit yesterday.

Dr. W. O. Thomas took W. C. Graebner and Carl Reimer in his auto to Lake Geneva, Walworth and the surrounding small towns yesterday. Mr. Graebner was putting out the Elkhorn Fair advertising matter. C. P. Drake says the Delavan Lake Assembly will clear about $200 this year, and it will be the first year since it was established to come out ahead.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS ARE GETTING BUSY

Chairman Connel Selects His Executive Committee—Will Conduct Businesslike Campaign.

Rock county Democrats are getting in fighting trim for the campaign, organizing and marshalling their forces, and preparing to carry the war into the enemy's country, the Republican camp. Chairman E. H. Connel has just selected his Executive Committee, the members of which are J. R. Riordan of Beloit, Frank R. Morriss of Milton Junction, P. J. Mout of Janesville, C. A. Hoeh of Edgerton and W. Crissman of Clinton. This committee will have general supervision of the democratic campaign, and have the care of all the financial business. It will work in close cooperation with the County Central Committee.

Strict business methods will be pursued in the conduct of the campaign. All money will be paid out on voucher orders and the accounts kept in such form that they can be inspected and understood by members of the party at any time. The Executive Committee will audit the books and submit a report of the disbursements made. The first report of funds received and spent will be filed with the county clerk next Saturday.

private object to serve, who shall recommend any necessary remedy of what interest may be hurt thereby, and caring only for the interest of the people as a whole.

The Currency.
Mr. Roosevelt declares that our present bank currency based on Government bonds is unsatisfactory, and urges the adoption of a system which shall provide "elasticity in the credit and currency necessary for the conduct of business, free from recurring panics."

Conservation.
Under this head Mr. Roosevelt reaffirms his well-known policy on the conservation and reclamation of National resources. We must conserve our soil, our forests, our mines, not only for our own benefit but for the benefit of our children and descendants. "The public should not alienate its fee in the water-power which will be of incalculable value as a source of power in the immediate future," and "we should undertake the complete development and control of the Mississippi as a National work, just as we have undertaken the work of building the Panama Canal."

Alaska.
"In Alaska the Government has an opportunity of starting in what is almost a fresh field, to work out various problems by actual experiment." It should at once construct, own, and operate all the railways in Alaska; it should keep the two of all coal-fields and allow them to be operated by lessees with the condition in the lease that non-use shall operate as a forfeiture; a system of land taxation should be tried which promotes the actual use of land and discourages the holding of land for speculation; the telegraph lines should be owned and operated by the Government.

International Affairs.
"In international affairs this country should behave towards other nations exactly as an honorable private citizen behaves towards other private citizens." Our small army should have large efficiency; the navy must be steadily built up until "it proves possible to secure by international agreement a general reduction of armaments." The Panama canal must be fortified, Panama Canal tolls on deep-water commerce should be uniform to all nations, including ourselves; American coastwise vessels should pass through the Canal free, for this would be no discrimination against foreign nations and would give us reasonable facilities with transcontinental railways. No foreign treaty should be entered into which we do not mean scrupulously to observe in every particular.

Conclusion.
In summing up the specific policies expounded in his duties Mr. Roosevelt spoke as follows:

"Now, friends, this is my confession of faith. I have made it rather long because I wish you to know just what my deepest convictions are on the great questions of today, so that if you choose to make me your standard-bearer in the fight, you shall make your choice understanding exactly how I feel—and if, after hearing me, you think you ought to choose some one else, I shall loyally abide by your choice. The convictions to which I have come have not been arrived at as the result of study in the closet or the library, but from the knowledge I have gained through hard experience during the many years in which, under many and varied conditions, I have striven and toiled with men. I believe in a larger use of the governmental power to help remedy industrial wrongs, because I have seen borne in on me by actual experience the wrongs without the exercise of such power of the wrongs will go unremedied. I believe in a larger opportunity for the people themselves directly to participate in government and to control their governmental agents, because long experience has taught me that without such control many of their agents will represent them badly. By actual experience in office I have found that, as a rule, I could secure the triumph of the causes in which I most believed, not from the politicians, but from the men who claim an exceptional right to speak in business and Government, but by going over their heads and appealing directly to the people themselves. I am not under the slightest delusion as to my power that during my political career I have at any time possessed. Whatever of power I at any time had, I obtained from the people. I could exercise it only so long as, and to the extent that the people not merely believed in me, but heartily backed me up. Whatever I did as President I was able to do only because I had the backing of the people. When on any point I did not have that backing, when on any point I differed from the people, it mattered not whether I was right or whether I was wrong, my power vanished. I tried my best to lead the people, to advise them, to tell them what I thought was right; if necessary, I never hesitated to tell them what I thought they ought to hear, even though I thought it would be unpleasant for them to hear it; but I recognized that my task was to lead them and not to drive them, to take them into my confidence, to try to show them that I was right, and then loyally and in good faith to accept their decision. I will do anything for the people except what my conscience tells me is wrong, and that I can do for no man and no set of men; I hold that a man cannot serve the people well unless he serves his conscience but I hold also that where his conscience bids him refuse to do what the people desire, he should not try to convince them in office against their will. Our Government system should be so shaped that the public servant, when he cannot conscientiously carry out the best wishes of the people, shall at their desire leave his office; and I hold that the public servant can by so doing, better than in any other way, serve both them and his conscience. Six weeks ago, here in Chicago, I spoke of the honest representatives of a Convention, which was not dominated by honest men; a Convention wherein sat, alas! a majority of men who, with sweeping indifference to every principle of right, so acted as to bring to a shameful end a party which had been founded over half a century ago, by men in whose souls burned the fire of lofty endeavor. Now to you men, who, in your turn, have borne together to spend and be spent in the endless crusade against wrong, to you who face the future resolute and confident, to you who strive in a spirit of brotherhood for the betterment of our Nation, to you who bid yourselves for this great new fight in the never-ending warfare for the good of mankind, I say in closing what in that speech I said in closing: We stand at Armageddon, and we battle for the Lord."

The second day of the progressive national convention opened with a well defined fight over the negro question vying first interest with Col. Theodore Roosevelt's delivery to his "confession of faith" to his followers in the progressive cause. Some of the delegates declared that the elimination of the southern negro from participation in the formation of the new party had become the paramount issue of the convention. Eastern negroes joined with their brothers from the south in denunciation of certain things that occurred at an all night meeting of the credentials committee when the last of the southern negro delegates were barred from the floor of the convention in a close vote by members of the committee. The vote stood 17 to 13 against the negroes those from Mississippi and Rhode Island and other eastern negroes stood in crying that the deciding ballot in the vote had been cast by a questionable proxy on the committee.

Fairly sputtering indignation the negroes announced they would carry the matter to Col. Roosevelt for a personal ruling on the point. The vote on the Mississippi case came in a secret session of the committee at three this morning, a few hours after both white and negro delegations from Florida had been barred from the convention.

"This matter is not settled yet," said the Mississippi negroes when they learned of the decision of the credentials committee. "We will say the matter before Col. Roosevelt himself today and if necessary we will carry the fight to the floor of the convention."

The negroes were indignant and excitedly valuable throughout the session of the committee which began at eight last night and continued until nearly daybreak. The Mississippi contest was the last to be up and it was begun shortly after midnight. The national committee had voted to unseat the negroes and they appeared primed for oratory. Half a dozen of them told the committee that to seat the white delegation headed by provisional national committeeman, B. F. Fridge, was equivalent to disfranchising the negro. Several of the negroes in the seated delegation were among the ousted delegates who stood by Col. Roosevelt and deserted the republican convention in Chicago to attend the first progressive meeting when plans were made for the third party. They had issued a call for a progressive convention in Mississippi before Fridge was selected as national committeeman.

At this instance of Senator Dixon they said they withdrew this call, allow Fridge to assume charge. But they then declared that Fridge's call was addressed only to "white" voters they called another convention and elected ten white men and ten negroes to cast Mississippi's vote in the progressive convention.

Col. Roosevelt at his headquarters today sent out word that he would see no one until after he had delivered his "confession of faith" at the convention today. When Frank Knox of Michigan, chairman of the committee on credentials came along however with word of the all night battle over the negro question, the Colonel reversed his decision and invited him for a conference. Mr. Knox was said to be anxious over the nature of the report to be made to the convention today.

Despite the fact that Col. Roosevelt was expected to reach the convention hall soon after noon, delegates to the national progressive gathering were slow again today in reaching their seats. At ten minutes to twelve there were not more than 200 delegates on the floor. The galleries were also slow in filling. Several bands were reported on their way to the Coliseum and it was apparent when Col. Roosevelt arrived to deliver his "confession" he would get a noisy greeting.

The delegates were prepared with flags and bandanas to make the demonstration a colorful one as well as noisy.

PIONEER JANESVILLE MERCHANT IS DEAD

Otto F. Meyer, Who Conducted Store in City Before Civil War, Passes Away at Neillsville.

Otto F. Meyer, who came to Janesville sixty-four years ago and for many years conducted a store on North Main street, died yesterday morning at the home of his niece, Mrs. Richard Schleuter, in Neillsville, at the age of ninety years. He removed from this city to Neillsville two years ago. Mr. Meyer was born in Hanover, Germany, April 10, 1822. His wife, whom he married in this country, was also born in Germany, and died in this city six years ago. One child was born to them, but died in infancy. His sole immediate survivors are his niece, already mentioned, a nephew residing in New Mexico, and a sister and nieces in Germany. Mr. Meyer was highly respected in this city and has a number of old friends here who remember him well and relate interesting anecdotes of his wit and shrewdness. The remains will be brought to this city late today and interment will be made in Oak Hill cemetery following services in the chapel at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. S. Fuchs.

Mrs. James Doe.
Requiem mass for Mrs. James Doe, who died yesterday at her home in Waubesa, will be celebrated at nine o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's church. The body arrived here at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon and was taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. John McCarthy, 1320 Pleasant Street.

BABY NEEDS WATCHING IN SUMMER TIME

Their Little Stomachs Get Out of Order Easily in Hot Weather.

Mothers should watch closely the condition of the children's bowels, babies especially. Keep the bowels regular and much of the illness to which children are most susceptible in summer can be prevented.

The most prevalent symptoms are constipation and diarrhoea. When waste from the stomach congests in the bowels and makes your little one feverish and fretful, with a feeling of heaviness or languor, try giving it a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bedtime. By morning this pleasant, mild laxative will act gently, yet positively, and restore normal conditions. This simple, natural remedy is also invaluable in checking summer diarrhoea. By thoroughly cleansing the bowels, the foreign matter and poisons that irritate and inflame the tissues are eliminated. Don't torture the child with harsh cathartic, purgative or astringent remedies, that upset the whole system, and at best only relieve temporarily. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, while positive in its effect, acts gently and without gripping or discomfort, restoring normal conditions.

In using Syrup Pepsin for children the mother can feel perfectly safe, as it contains no opiates or narcotic drug, being a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin. By carrying off the dislodged tissues of mucous membrane that inflame the nasal passages it will quickly break the "summer cold" that is so annoying. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists for fifty cents a bottle—the larger family size, one dollar. A free trial bottle, postpaid, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 406 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

In the New Websterian Chapter on Abbreviations—N. B.—Book is All New.

If you know how to use your own language with all its abbreviations and idioms you are fitted out "O. K." for the battle of business, but in so much as you fall short of this standard you are all "N. G."

It is dollars to doughnuts that you do not know what "N. M." "Mus. B." "Pam." "Pan." or "Par." mean. If you don't you ought to know.

Perhaps the idea of sitting down and memorizing a lot of abbreviations does not sound attractive to you.

Let The Gazette present you with the "easiest way" the royal road to learning concise or contracted English.

Here it is: Keep the limp leather lexicon, called the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated, at your elbow and you will have all the assistance you need ready at hand to use when occasion demands.

Six coupons and a small expense bonus gets you this fortune in compact, ready to use form, profusely illustrated and compiled on a common sense system.

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

It has been revised and brought up to the present date in accordance with the best authorities from the greatest universities, and is published by a well known publishing company of New York City.

Ball players have always shunned black cats, but they needn't any more. A black cat brought good luck to Pitcher Jacobson of St. Thomas, Can. team.

Jacobson put a stray black cat in the pocket of his sweater coat. He was coaching, and a line drive went at him so fast he couldn't dodge it. He didn't need to. The cat was killed by the ball, but Jacobson was unhurt.

Clark Griffith of the Washington club doesn't believe in the sacrifice hit. He doesn't deny that it's a good one run play, but he says one run innings don't make winning ball teams. It is the club that gets run in bunches that is successful, according to Griffith, and the fact his team is hovering around the top would seem to bear out his theory.

The Western open golf championship will be played over links of the Idlewild club at Flossmoor, Ill., August 28-29. It will consist of seventy-two holes of medal play. Entries close August 23. The Olympic team competition of the W. G. A. will be played at Wheaton, August 31. This event is open to the golf association of the world.

An international bantam fight is in contemplation for September. If present plans are carried through the fighters will be Johnny Coulon and Charles Ledoux, of France. Coulon is the bantam titleholder in America, while Ledoux boasts a like honor in Europe. If the match is secured it will arouse great interest in fighting circles, as it is the only fight for a world's championship now in sight. If the match is pulled off it will be in Paris.

"It's not fame I'm after, but the money," declared Mike Gibbons, welterweight champion recently. "At that, I really enjoy the boxing game, but I do not intend to keep up work till beaten. You know the old story about the pitcher and the well, eh? Well—and that's another joke—I'm only a day and I'm afraid of being shattered. Before this happens I hope to earn about $100,000. When I earn that sum I'll retire from the game."

If Mike keeps on earning money at his present clip, it won't take him long to get that hundred thousand together. He has cleared $30,000 in the last nine months.

Tommy Lowe, who has boxed with most of the fighters in his day, waxes eloquent over Phil Brock of Cleveland. "Brock is the most dangerous boy I ever met," says Lowe. "His style is puzzling and he is very hard to hit in the stomach. He has blocked nearly every punch I have made for his body since I became his sparring partner. There is no getting away from his left hand; he has a nice right uppercut and his distance is perfect."

Brock seems to be in better form today than ever before. Three physicians who have examined him recently declare him to be the most perfect specimen of manhood they have ever met.

EXPECT A HUNDRED HORSES WILL ENTER THE BIG RACE MEET

Light Harness Men From All Over Country Will Have Horses Here for Races Next Week.

With inquiries coming in every day and with some of the fastest horses in this section already entered, Manager Charles S. Putnam is confident that between seventy-five and one hundred entries will be made in the big race meet which will open next Wednesday and continue through Friday.

The barns at the driving park will accommodate ninety horses and there is little question that they will be filled. Among some of the horses already entered is Manager H. E. the famous 2:08 pacer from Belvidere, whose entry card was filed yesterday. Other horses that will have been entered from Streator, Ill., Lake City, Minn., as well as a large number of animals in this state. Goodspeed of West Chicago has written to Mr. Putnam stating that he would send up a number of his best horses for the meet and if the location is suitable he would consider it as training quarters for his horses next season.

Other horsemen are also considering the local track as a training place and there is a possibility that all of the barns at the driving park will be filled next year with horses that are being trained for the big race tracks. The event next week will put Janesville on the map as a racing center and will mean the revival of this popular form of amusement in this region. The fact that there are no other horse races in progress in northern Illinois or southern Wisconsin next week has given the management the best possible chance of boosting their attraction and has made possible the large and attractive entry list which is being compiled. Horsemen from all over the country will be here and crowds will be drawn from points within a radius of a hundred miles.

The racing program as previously announced has not been changed although an added event or two may be scheduled. Following is the program for the three days.

BUT THREE PLAYERS HERE FROM CHICAGO

Golfers From Ridge Country Club, Chicago, Entertained at Mississippi Club House.

But three players from the Ridge Country Club, Chicago, arrived in this city today, whereas a team of eight or twelve enthusiasts were expected. As originally planned the Chicago club was to send a team to this city to meet representatives of the Mississippi club on the local links on Wednesday of this week. It was learned yesterday that they would come today instead. The three men here are: Charles Baker, F. M. Baker, and Edw. Baker. They were entertained at dinner at the club house and this afternoon enjoyed a game with local players on the Mississippi course.

ROCKFORD W. I. TEAM ARRANGES PENNANT DAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Rockford, Ill., Aug. 6.—The Rockford team of the Wisconsin-Illinois baseball league has made arrangements for the pennant raising at the local park tomorrow. Efforts are being made to bring out a record-breaking crowd. Many factories and stores have agreed to close for the afternoon to enable the employees to attend the game.

Oklahoma Tennis Tourney
McAlester, Okla., Aug. 6.—With an entry list comprising some of the best talent of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Missouri and Arkansas, the annual open tournament for the lawn tennis championship of Oklahoma opened here today with some keen competition in prospect. The matches are being played on the courts of the McAlester Country Club and will continue through the week.

THINKS CHAMPIONS STILL IN THE RACE

Owen Bush.
"It looks like Boston, Washington has a chance, but don't count the Athletics out because they are a few games to the bad." That is the way the American League situation looks to Donnie Bush, the sensational little Detroit Tiger shortstop. "Personally I would like to see either Boston or Washington win, because the Athletics have had two outs at the world series melon," says Bush. "Both of them at this stage look to have a better chance than Connie Mack's team. Washington can't stay up and it's the Red Sox ever slip and the Athletics are able to cut down the lead to five or six games there is going to be a sensational finish, in my opinion."

Your Spine Is Out of Order But You May Not Know It. You Are Sick But You May Not Know It. Visit the Chiropractor Regularly and Keep Healthful.

Spinal subluxations occur with widely differing degrees of severity, and the resulting disturbances of health vary accordingly. A subluxation of the spinal bones may be so severe as to cause intense suffering, great impairment of function in one or more organs, paralysis or even death; or it may be so slight that no appreciable disturbance of health will be experienced until a change of environment or some unusual strain or effort makes a greater demand for functional activity than the part or organ deprived by the subluxation of its full quota of vital energy is able to supply. A case of MEASLES AFFAIR affords an apt and impressive illustration of this fact.

The victim of this distressing malady has subluxations but they cause no annoyance or distress, except for a short time each year, when the presence of some substance in the atmosphere, induces a peculiar irritation of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, which, owing to its enfeebled condition, it is unable to resist. As soon as this disturbing atmospheric influence disappears, the symptoms which it occasions subside, and health is seemingly restored. I say seemingly because as long as the subluxations exist, the mucous membrane will be weak and unable to perform its functions in the vigorous manner necessary to maintain a condition of perfect health, although it may perform them sufficiently well, under favorable atmospheric conditions, to occasion no perceptible indications of illness.

Visit the Chiropractor regularly. Or, special out of town visits will be made. Write for free literature. Spinal analysis free.

NO END TO THE THAW CASE.

Doubtless the general belief has been that the recent effort to release Harry Thaw from Matteawan by appeal to the courts would be the last. To the ordinary observer it seemed that every possible resource to obtain his liberty had been exhausted. But no sooner had the judge who sat in the latest hearing decided that Thaw must remain in confinement than his counsel announced that another attempt to obtain freedom for him would be made as soon as possible.

It is plainly a battle of dollars against law and justice. It is evident that as long as the Thaw fortune holds out it will be employed to enable the murderer of Stanford White to escape further punishment for his crime. The kind of litigation necessary for this purpose is executive. Alienists demand big fees for their services. Such cases consume much time. As to the willingness of the Thaws to spend their money for this purpose, that is their own affair. But it costs the tax-payers nearly as much to contest these cases as it does the Thaws to prosecute them. Harry Thaw has already burdened the state of New York heavily, and it seems that he will cost it much more before it is through with him.

The object of the attorneys of Thaw is obviously to tire out the officers of the law. But this is so apparent that it may fail of accomplishment. Thaw's lawyers may find that hereafter the opposition to them will be whetted by resentment and indignation. No public official likes to be proceeded against on the presumption that he is a weakling and a "quitter." It is not unlikely that the more persistent the efforts to get Thaw out of prison become the more determined will be the authorities to keep him there.

THE PLAYGROUNDS.

During the past few months there has been considerable discussion through the columns of the press relative to the establishment of playgrounds. Many meetings have been held to promote the idea and committee's named, but it remained for the young people of the Third ward to really make the first step with their carnival and actually deposit part of their profits in the bank dedicated to this purpose. These same young people plan to increase this fund by holding other entertainments this week and to add in the work members of the Bower City band and the Moose band have donated their services for complimentary concerts. It is a laudable undertaking and one which should find ready support from citizens generally.

THE CITY CHILDREN.

Each summer, for several years past, the Summer Club of Household Economics have invited children from the congested districts of Chicago to come to the country for a two weeks' outing. It is a rare treat for these little people who live in tenements and is looked forward to with pleasure through the long winter and spring months. This organization of ladies make many personal sacrifices to give pleasure to these little people and are repaid a thousand fold by their delight and pleasure at the outing. Tomorrow marks the advent of the arrival of the visitors for this year and they will enjoy the hospitality of the homes thrown open to them for the coming two weeks.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Local politicians are much exercised over the possibilities that confront them in their selection of candidates for the state senate, assembly and various county offices. The campaign for the next month will be a most hotly contested one and full of thrills for the candidates. The corrupt practice law is puzzling some of the candidates, but fortunately it has been adjusted so that none will feel the evil effects of its requirements and be debarred from a place on the ticket at the September primary. If you are confronted with the request for a vote for this or that candidate it is suggested to the average citizen that you find how the candidate stands on questions of vital interest to the best interests of the state. There are laws that need revision if not striking off the statute books entirely and it is up to the next legislature to do something about this.

ON RACE MAP.

Janesville is on the map of the racing world again and the coming harness events to be held at the Park association track next week bid fair to bring visitors from all parts of the state. There was a day when Janesville was known the country over as the center of fine and fast horses and they day bids fair to return.

While the republicans are having the time of their lives throughout the state, Judge Karel and Candidate Schmitz are after each other hammer and tongs for the democratic nomination for governor. Different localities voice different views but it would appear that this section of the state favored Karel.

One feature about this primary law that can be lost sight of is the fact that the elector must vote either the democratic or republican ticket at the primary. No splitting of tickets goes when the official vote is counted. It is worth remembering.

The question still remains unanswered: Are all the retail liquor dealers of the city complying strictly with the closing ordinance, and if not why not?

In passing, it may be well to note the manner in which the police of New York are enforcing the Sullivan law prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons.

It is to be hoped that in a short time District Attorney Whitman, of New York, will be able to start that stirring song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

A New Jersey man claims to have a hen that drinks beer and lays double her quota of eggs. Is he perfectly sure that it is the hen that drinks the beer?

Heien Gould says it is no disgrace to be an old maid. And she can prove it by her sister, sometime Countess de Castellane and later Princess de Sagan.

"Pie," says an exchange, "is an expression of the soul." Yet most of us have been under the impression that the expressions were due to nightmare.

Perhaps for the first time the slayers of Gambler Rosenthal are impressed with the ghastly significance of the name of New York's city prison.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Aug. 6.—A special meeting of the Wisconsin consistory has been called for Wednesday to take action on the plan for purchasing property for the establishment of a permanent home for the Scottish rite in Wisconsin. Plymouth church has been offered to the consistory and there is a strong sentiment among the members to buy the property if a satisfactory price can be secured.

By ROY K. MOULTON.

According to Uncle Abner, a feller has a lot of trouble dodgin' his creditors in a one-street town. There is a certain joy about wearin' your first derby hat that doesn't come at any other time in life.

The real patriot is the feller who thinks that his one vote is goin' to decide the presidential election.

It may be necessary some day to call a special session of Congress to amend the ten commandments and the amendment will probably get a

GREAT DEMAND FOR COMMON LABORERS

Head of State Free Employment Bureau Issues Statement to Employers.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 6.—A widely advertised demand for labor by the industrial interests in various parts of the state has been noticed for some time, and today caused W. M. Leiserson, who supervises the state free employment offices, to issue a statement telling employers how and where to get plenty of help.

"The shortage of common laborers is a serious problem in many sections of the state," he said. "The Wisconsin free employment offices were designed by the industrial commission to meet just such situations as well as to help the idle workman to find employment quickly. The offices are helping out many employers not only in the cities where they are located but also in distant parts of the state. Employers are advised to take advantage of these facilities to get help. The best way is to send a representative to the offices who can personally pick out his men."

"It is not possible to supply all the demand for common laborers, but employers can secure a good many by getting in touch with the free employment offices, especially with the office in Milwaukee, where several hundred laborers may be found every day. Railroad and construction companies and several machine shops and foundries now send agents down to the Milwaukee office almost every day and they are able to pick up crews of from 20 to 30 men. Advertisements, news items and communications are now appearing in the press almost daily telling of the shortage of labor in various sections of Wisconsin, and still the demand does not come. The demand will be at least partly met by application to the free employment offices."

"During the last week several lumber companies and construction companies have appealed to the Milwaukee office to help them get laborers. They were told that if they sent someone down to Milwaukee and were willing to advance the railroad fare they could probably pick up some crews. The companies took advantage of this opportunity and laborers have been secured in this way for work in Mellen, Kimberly, Laona, Manitowish and other places. Milwaukee is naturally the largest labor center in the state. The free employment office there has a large waiting room and employers who send agents to the office can almost always pick up some men from the crowd."

Iceberg Blocked Harbor.

Discussing the iceberg question, Prof. John Milne of London writes that the year he visited Newfoundland one of these ice mountains had stuck in the Narrows, which is the entrance to St. John's harbor. The capital of Newfoundland was bottled up. "A fort pounded at the intruder for a time, but they might as well have pounded at the Karakoram mountains. The monster stopped all traffic either in or out. On the third day, however, it heeled over and sailed away."

D. C. Bybee, teaming contractor living at 609 Keeling Court, Canton, Ill., is now well rid of a severe and annoying case of kidney trouble. His back pained and he was bothered with headaches and dizzy spells. "I took Foley Kidney Pills just as directed and in a few days I felt much better. My life and strength seemed to come back, my backache left me, I slept well, and I got up free from headache and dizzy spells. I am now all over my trouble and recommend Foley Kidney Pills to everyone." Badger Drug Co.

The Village Orator

Under the spreading campaign tree the village chestnut stands. A mighty orator is he and when he waves his hands and lets his voice sound full and free he drowns out all the bands. He is a man of wisdom who knows how to save the state. He is a statesman through and through, but said 'tis to relate his meat and grocery bills are due and he can't liquidate. The folks have known him many years and have gone on his notes. They know just when he'll shed the tears and tell his anecdotes, when he upon the stage appears and argues for the votes. He tells them how the nation bleeds with vice and discontent. He tells them what the nation needs and how funds should be spent. He tells of great financial deeds, but he can't pay his own rent. He waves the starry flag on high and makes the eagle scream. He yanks the stars out of the sky to punctuate his dream. It seems he never will grow dry and never run out of steam. He is a mighty economist, but is most always broke. The common people he'd enlist to deal a mighty stroke. It's one of whom fame has never kissed—A scream, a screech, a yell.

Some Needed Improvements.

A man down in Texas has invented pajamas with a hip pocket. This will soon be a very pleasant world if some genius will get busy and supplement this great innovation by the following inventions:

Undershirt that will not roll up under the arms.

Collar button that will not roll off the bureau.

E. F. U. STAG PICNIC ENJOYED BY MEMBERS

Thirty Take Boat to Picnic Grounds Ten Miles Up River—Ball Game Played.

About thirty members of the Equitable Fraternal Union attended the picnic last Sunday, taking the steamer to the grounds ten miles up the river. The chief diversion on the program was the ball game between teams captained by John Heller and Albert Kach. Heller's team won by a small margin. Six home runs were made and George Quade did himself great credit as pitcher. Dinner was served at twelve o'clock. On the return trip a stop was made at Crystal Springs where President Fred Smith made a speech on the benefits of the order, and was followed by other members. It may be decided to make the picnic a semi-annual affair. In about two weeks the order will give a moonlight boat ride for the members and their families. The E. F. U. now has 101 members in Janesville and has had no suspensions in the first six months.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one graded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE CHALICE OF LIFE.

The poet calls life a "crystal palace," which is a fine figure. You can fill a chalice or bowl to the brim with a liquid. Then to make an overflow you drop something into the liquid. The overflow is as large as that which you put into the bowl. So is human life.

The Lord of life has filled your earthly vessel to the brim. The chalice holds your life. If you want life "more abundantly" you must put something into the vessel. It must overflow. And what you get in overflow is measured by what you put in. For instance—

If you put love into the chalice your life will overflow in loveliness. If you put hatred into your cup it will overflow in hatred. If you put into it sin you will overflow in sinfulness. In other words, you cannot get more out of your cup of mortal life than you put into it. You may get less; you cannot get more.

A harsh law? On the contrary, it is a gracious one. It puts the powers of the universe into your humble hands. It commissions you lord of your destiny. You make what you will of yourself. You measure out to yourself your happiness or unhappiness.

You get what you give.

Moreover, the figure holds in this: The chalice is crystal, transparent. You can see the process going on within the lives of others. You can see men and women putting into the cup of their lives love or hatred or envy or bitterness, and you can see the overflow in kind.

And you?

What are you putting in—money? Then the overflow will be merely money, nothing more. Certainly you would not expect to get an overflow of happiness. It is contrary to the law. Besides—

If you keep on putting in merely money you will get not only the overflow, but you will by and by fill up the precious chalice, and there shall be no room for aught else but money.

And then—

Some day Death will come with his hammer and break your frail bowl of life and shatter it into fragments. And "all you can hold in your dead cold hand is what you have given away"—what you have put into the chalice.

Here is the cup.

What will you put in?

VANILLA BEAN.

The making of vanilla extract is not a complicated process but it does call for expert knowledge of material. Vanilla beans come in all grades, from the worthless to the best. The finest beans are grown and cured in Mexico. Their value is about double that of pure silver. Every conceivable device is used to adulterate and deceive the public into buying worthless vanilla. Never buy a bottle labeled compound or modified extract or one on which the name vanilla is misspelled. The standard strength of a drug store extract is ten per cent, but the laws of Wisconsin allow peddlars and canvassers to sell three per cent extract and label it Pure Vanilla.

The pure food guarantee has nothing to do with the quality. Pure Vanilla is pure vanilla whether made from worthless beans or beans worth double their weight in silver. The worth of the beans is in their fine flavor.

Mr. Pfennig, our graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, makes our vanilla from the finest beans, it is double strength, absolutely pure, of the nicest flavor, aged for at least four years and sold at 15c the ounce, 2 ounces 25c. We ask you to buy a bottle today. Use one-half the amount you use of any other extract in your next frosting or cream, learn its rich flavor and strength. We know you will always be our customer. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts.

J.M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

It may be taken as a rule that business success comes most surely to the merchant who is best prepared to receive it.

You will admit readily that a merchant's success depends directly on the service he renders. It is by straightforward dealing, by supplying merchandise that is dependably correct, by thinking first of the customer's satisfaction, that any store's supremacy is built up. To slight any of these principles of service is to court failure.

These are our own ideals in dealing with you. We carry superior merchandise, as excellent in its workmanship, its style, its fit, its value, be it a garment, a rug, dress goods or other item, as any manufacturer can produce. It will please you through the ultimate satisfaction it will give. We want you to see it, to inspect it critically, to put our word to the test. It deserves your personal attention. May we ask you to give it a share of consideration in your interest.

GIVE DEMONSTRATION OF AUTOMATIC PHONE

Many Are Interested In Exchange Established At Putnam's Store By Rock County Telephone Company.

Many Janesville citizens are interested in the automatic telephone exchange which has been established at the C. S. Putnam store by the Rock County Telephone company to demonstrate the system of installation of which they are contemplating.

An exchange board with ten instruments connected constitute the apparatus on exhibition. The one board is large enough to serve a hundred telephones if they were connected, however. The method of operating is very simple and is explained in several minutes to visitors. A small dial on each instrument is operated by the person desiring to call a number after the receiver is taken down. The connection is made automatically without the need of a central operator and the bell of the instrument called rings intermittently until some one removes the receiver or until the party calling hangs up the receiver which breaks the connection. When the line is busy notification is made by a buzzing in the receiver.

Should the system be established by the local company it would mean the abolition of central operators as all that is needed is an expert electrician to take charge of the switchboards and keep them in running order. Operators for the long distances and information departments would be all that would be required.

There have been many visitors at the Putnam store during the past two days to see the working of the system. Nearly all are favorably impressed and the signatures of those who favor the adoption of the system are being taken to secure an expression from the Janesville public. It is estimated that the installation would cost between $70,000 and $80,000 and would mean a slight increase in the rate to the subscribers. The demonstration will continue throughout the present week.

SESSION OF COUNCIL HELD THIS AFTERNOON

A final hearing on protests against the proposed improvements of Washington street and Milwaukee avenue was given by the City Council at its meeting this afternoon. Although protests were made against the Washington street improvement at the meeting of the Board of Public Works and it has been rumored abroad that a petition against the improvement would be circulated and submitted to the Council, no citizens appeared to protest and no petition had been filed up to late this afternoon.

There was little other business before the Council. Bills for regular services totaling $3,747.56 were allowed, and the appointments by Mayor Fathers of Mrs. W. T. Sherer to the Library Board and Charles Schwartz to the Fire and Police Commission were confirmed.

PRINCIPLE IN RATE CASES ESTABLISHED

Interstate Commerce Commission Makes Decision With Regard to Misrouting Shipments.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The interstate commerce commission today established the principle that "an initial carrier having forwarded a shipment over an available and reasonable route which complied with the routine instructions and via which the lowest lawful rate was applicable, cannot be changed without misrouting." The commission also held in the same case that of the Payne Lumber company of Oshkosh, Wis., against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railroad and others that "no prevention of unreasonable charges over a joint through rate applicable over a particular route because of the fact that intermediate rates via another route would make a lower charge."

FRED R. WILKERSON WILL LOCATE AT WINONA, MINN.

Has Accepted a Position With Minnesota Harness Company at That Place.

Fred R. Wilkerson left Thursday evening last for Winona, Minn., where he has accepted a responsible position with the Minnesota Harness company. He expects to take his family to Winona soon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson are held in high esteem by a large circle of friends in Janesville. They have been active in church work at the Baptist church where Mr. Wilkerson has served for some time as baritone singer. Mr. Wilkerson was employed in the Bassett and Ebbin factory until the first last winter. For the past few months he has been with the John C. Nichols company.

HUTCHINSON HAS FILED HIS NOMINATION PAPERS.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 6.—James Hutchinson, Janesville, democratic candidate for state senator from the Twenty-second district, has filed nomination papers. Similar papers were also filed on Monday by Oscar Pederson, Ladysmith, republican candidate for state senator from the Twelfth district. They were mailed on Saturday the last day for filing papers, but were accepted.

MISS DOTY WILL JOIN THEATRICAL COMPANY

Miss Mildred Doty, who returned home from Chicago last evening, has secured a roll in the production, "The Divorced Girl in Dixie," which will be produced under the direction of D. C. Hamill of Chicago. Miss Doty will return to Chicago next week for rehearsals as the initial engagement for the production will be Sept. 1.

LEG WAS FRACTURED IN WRESTLING BOUT

Edward W. Miller Victim of Accident—Early This Afternoon—Also Suffered Sprained Ankle.

Edward W. Miller, an employee of the St. Paul railway, had the large bone in his right leg fractured below the knee and his right ankle dislocated while engaged in a friendly wrestling match on the enclosed lawn opposite the Sheridan hotel about 12:45 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. R. W. Edden was summoned and reduced the fracture. Mr. Miller was taken to a room in the Sheridan hotel and made as comfortable as possible. Later he will be taken to his home, 1133 Washington street. Mr. Miller formerly conducted a saloon on West Milwaukee street.

PREDICT FAMINE IN HARD COAL SUPPLY

Local Dealers Say Present Supply Will Not Last Through Winter—Prices to Advance September 1.

A shortage of coal supplies in the near future, especially in the supplies of anthracite coal, and probably a famine of hard coal before the end of the coming winter are freely predicted by coal dealers of this city today. "Before the end of the coming season the people will be glad to burn almost anything in place of hard coal," said Herman Lichtfus, one of the large dealers in fuel supplies in this city today, "and things will be at a standstill in six weeks, when the shipments of grain from the west and northwest begin to move. The railroads are beginning to fix up their damaged cars to send them out to the grain fields and when the call for cars for grain comes in, it will be impossible to get cars."

Briefly, the situation in Janesville, and in other towns and cities through the west threatens to become serious. The dealers in this city have announced a raise of twenty-five cents in the prices of hard coal from $9.25 to $9.50 per ton will be made about September 1, and some predict that prices will go higher before the close of the winter. The cold weather winter, it is said, depleted the supplies stored on the docks at the various western shipping points, and at the close there was little left. Added to this, there was the long delay in the settlement of the coal miners' strike, so that for about four months little coal was taken out of the mines, and at present all the coal men in the city complain of a shortage. A coal salesman in the city today is credited with the statement that at the present time there are only about twenty-eight thousand tons of coal stored on the docks at Chicago, an infinitely small amount. Coal dealers here also report little hard coal moving westward from the mines. A large amount of the coal that is being mined is used in the east, so that a small portion of the output to supply the demand, comes west.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Entertained at Beloit: Twenty-five members of the Standard Bearers of the Methodist church went to Beloit last evening where they were entertained at the home of the president of the organization, Mrs. Charles Boddy, who recently removed to that city. A very enjoyable evening was spent.

Partially Finish Repairs: Repairs to the south side of the Milwaukee street bridge have been completed and work has been begun on the north side. The repairs will be finished within a few days. It is expected that the new deck of crescent blocks will be put down within two months time.

Old Sewer Work Done: The sewer work ordered done by the former city administration has been finished, the ditches filled in and rolled with the city's steam roller. Sewers were laid as far out as Center street on Locust street. Branches from this intersection will be put in later.

Still Dropping: The level of the river is still falling, having reached 10½ inches over the governmental mark at nine o'clock this morning.

Have Accident: William Cornelius Oas and his men were attempting to draw a pile out of the raceway near the west approach to the Fourth Avenue bridge this morning with a steam winch and block and tackle, a rope snapped and one of the blocks was thrown into deep water. A brace on the standard was also broken.

Rubbish in Alley: Complaint was made to the police this morning that one of the families occupying property abutting the alley running between Washington and Bluff Streets had dumped rubbish in the alley and permitted it to be scattered about. The police promised to see that the condition was remedied.

At Painters' Meeting: Percy L. Munger is spending the week at Rockford where he is in charge of an exhibit of the Sherwin-Williams company at the eighth annual convention of the Illinois Association of Master Painters and Decorators, which began today at the coliseum. Forty-six paint and varnish companies have arranged for booths.

Complete School Census: S. C. Burman, clerk of the school board, has completed taking the official school census. The canvass of the names has been made but it will be a week or so before any figures will be in shape for publication.

Automobile Parties: Mr. and Mrs. Simon C. Gage and two children, and Lilla Henrich of Ottawa, Ill., were members of an automobile party at the Grand hotel over-night. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. March and party of Chicago; Dr. and Mrs. M. J. White; Mrs. E. Hogenbaum and Dr. E. J. White of Milwaukee; and Mrs. Adolph Laurson and Miss Sage of Delavan comprised three parties of autoists at the Hotel Myers yesterday.

Taken To Hospital: Hannah Lawton who was recently committed to the county jail and who has been suffering with delirium, is recuperating today at the county hospital where she was taken last evening. Her condition was considered serious.

CHAUFFEUR IS FINED FOR SPEEDING AUTO

Alva Krotz Pleads Guilty To Exceeding Legal Limit On East Court Street Last Evening.

Alva Krotz, chauffeur for Miss Ida Harris, plead guilty in the Municipal court this morning to exceeding the legal speed limit of fifteen miles an hour on East Court Street last night and was fined $10 and costs by Judge Charles Fifield. Complaint was made to the police by Court street residents soon after 6:30 o'clock last evening. They claimed that Krotz was fairly burning up the earth and running anywhere from thirty to fifty miles an hour. From the description given him, Chief of Police Appleby had no difficulty in locating the speeder. Krotz, it seems, was alone in the car at the time, which he had taken from the garage without orders. He accounted for the joy ride by stating that the engine had been missing fire and he was giving it a try out on the Court street hill.

YOU MAY NOT LIKE T. R., BUT IT'S PLAIN THIS MOOSE CONVENTION IS AN EARNEST AFFAIR.

By Virgil V. McNitt.

Chicago. — Your view of the Progressive convention may depend largely upon whether you have been getting your facts raw or cooked; plain, or with fancy garnitures.

Some of our estimable purveyors of publicity, particularly those issued from New York City, have been serving up Theodore Roosevelt nicely broiled, and smothered in onions. The colonel, Bill Flinn, and George W. Perkins constitute the party, they let it appear, with the colony and his selfish ambitions the dominating factor. The whole movement is a sad-eyed affair, two jumps ahead of the undertaker, and with the hand of Nemesis outstretched to claim its own.

Lovers of highly-flavored foods, with plenty of mustard and pepper, are very fond of having Col. Roosevelt served up this way. It seems most appropriate and appetizing.

Perhaps you have been reading accounts of a different tenor. You may have been told that the new party is the embodiment of all that is clean and honest in present-day politics, and that it offers the only solution for national problems. You might call this pre-digested food.

Whether or not Roosevelt is as bad as he is painted by some, or as virtuous as so many of his followers believe, it cannot be denied that he has unchained a good deal of a demonstration in this Bull Moose convention. It is hardly true to say that the gathering is a dank, clammy affair. It is incorrect to say that Roosevelt is almost the only person of prominence in the movement, and that without his personality, the whole enterprise would shrivel up.

It is fair enough to point the accusing finger at George W. Perkins and ask the significance of his support. It is quite permissible to inquire whether Bill Flinn is or is not a boss in his new environment.

At the same time, we shall be obliged to take into account, if we are equally fair, that Gov. Hiram Johnson, and Judge Ben Lindsay, and Jane Adams, and Gen. McDowell, head of the Confederate veterans, and several hundred worthy persons who have not taken part in conventions before, are hardly to be counted in the movement for selfish reasons, or through any blind allegiance to T. R. Judging from the way these people if Roosevelt were still in Africa, talk, they would be in the movement granted anyone had begun the movement at this time. They tell us that Col. Roosevelt, while the standard-bearer and spokesman of the new party, is the instrument only of the people who wish an outspoken, untrifled leader for what may this year be a forlorn hope.

You may not agree with anything favorable that any of these folks may say of T. R., but it is not so easy to doubt their sincerity of purpose. You may question their judgment, but not the quality of their determination.

For a man who has been so largely and so pointedly criticized, Col. Roosevelt seems to hold on to the sentiment of his adherents in a truly remarkable manner. He is their crusader, their advocate. When he speaks, they yield attention.

A vigorous, impulsive, self-reliant man cannot remain long in public life a heroic figure. We tire of idols. No man is infallible, and when mistakes begin to crop out occasionally, the spell is broken. Anyway, it is wearing to see someone else remain long in the limelight when we are getting so little show ourselves, even though the man in the limelight may be endeavoring in the main to advance the common good.

Col. Roosevelt is the central figure today, leading his hosts of the new rebellion. He seems to have quite an enthusiastic party about him.

LAW'S GRIP TIGHTENS ABOUT GUN MEN WHO MURDERED HERMAN ROSENTHAL; WHITMAN CONFIDENT ALL WILL BE APPREHENDED.

New York. — "Whitey" Lewis, one of the "gun men" charged with the assassination of Rosenthal, declares police will get no information from him.

"I have to die sometime and I'd just as soon die tomorrow as a few days later," he says.

"Whitey" was captured in his mountain retreat near Kingston, N. Y., where he had mingled for days with people who were constantly discussing him, but had no idea he was near, his is his own story of his capture.

"I got shaved every day in the constable's barber shop. All I heard when I was in there was 'Whitey' Lewis. I had to give my theories about where he was just like the rest of them. Nobody had the least idea of suspecting me. They all thought this fellow Lewis must look like such a monster that you could tell him a mile off.

"There was only one time that I ever did anything to keep them from finding out who I was. That was when I went into a barber shop and found the barber who had always shaved me standing behind an empty chair. I sat down to wait my regular barber, but the constable called out 'Next.' 'No,' I said, 'I'll wait. This man has been shaving me right along. He makes a good job of it. I'll wait for him.'

"So that scar on my head? It was described in the papers, and I thought the constable might notice it and get to studying me. He knew 'Whitey' Lewis was in the neighborhood.

"One of the people I got to be pretty friendly with came around and showed me one of the pictures.

"Do you know he looks something like you?"

"I looked at it and laughed. Then I said, 'Yes, but it ain't me.'"

"I was right on the point of owing up at that time. I felt like saying, 'Sure, it's me. I'm 'Whitey' Lewis.'"

CORRUPT PRACTICE ACT COMPLICATION

Failure of Two Candidates to File Expense Accounts Presents a Peculiar Situation.

Several interesting phases of the corrupt practices act passed at the state legislature and amended at the special session in 1912, were brought out yesterday when it was learned that two of the candidates on the republican ticket at the September primary had failed to file statements of their expense accounts with the county clerk. The two men in question were John T. Atkinson, candidate for county clerk, and John Lynch, candidate for sheriff.

According to the amended law every candidate shall file with his filing office, for the above candidates the county clerk, within four days ending on the second Saturday after the first expense, expressed or implied, has been incurred, and within four days ending on the second Saturday of each calendar month, a financial statement verified on the oath of the candidate. Another section of the amendments to the act says: "The name of a candidate chosen at a primary or otherwise shall not be certified or printed on the official ballot for the ensuing elections, unless there has been filed by or on behalf of such candidate the statements of accounts and expenses relating to nominations required by this act up to the time of such certification."

It appeared that neither Mr. Atkinson nor Mr. Lynch had filed statements with the county clerk although both had been in the field and had admittedly spent money to secure their nominations for periods longer than two weeks.

The law also provides that the filing officer shall notify the candidates who have failed to file statements and if they do not then fulfill the requirements of the law, he shall notify the district attorney who will at once start prosecution against the offending candidate.

The amendment to the law contains a provision, however, that a candidate who has failed to file his account may within a certain time secure an order from any court of record setting forth the facts with relation to the omission of filing the account and that the financial statement with the court order may then be filed without any disqualification to the candidate. It was thought that both Messrs. Atkinson and Lynch had overstepped this time limit but it was finally decided to extend to them the privilege of securing such an order as it was evident that both were acting in good faith in regard to the affair.

The candidates affected stated as their reason for not filing statements that they were unacquainted with the terms of the law which also provides that "blanks for all statements required by this section shall be prepared by the secretary of state and copies thereof, together with a copy of this act, shall be furnished through the county clerk or otherwise, to every candidate upon the filing of nomination papers, and to all other persons required by law to file such statements who may apply therefor."

Consequently both of the candidates secured orders from Judge Sale yesterday and were allowed to file expense statements with the county clerk. The whole matter was the cause for considerable discussion as to the terms of the law and its interpretation, all of which indicated that the act was rather obscure as to some points.

Tyndall's Tribute to Faraday.

Tyndall, in paying tribute to the illustrious Michael Faraday, has this to say: "His nature was impulsive, but there was a force behind the impulse which did not permit it to retreat. In his warm moments he formed a resolution, in his cool moments he made that resolution good. Thus his fire was that of a solid combustible, not that of gas which blazes suddenly and dies as suddenly away."

GEORGE W. PERKINS, GOV. JOHNSON AND "BOSS" FLINN BIG GUNS IN NEW PARTY

Three men who stand out very prominently in the third party movement are George W. Perkins of New York; Gov. Hiram Johnson, of California, and "Boss" William Flinn, of Pittsburg. These men are attending the Bull Moose convention at Chicago this week, and are taking an important part in its proceedings. Johnson is counted upon to win the Pacific coast, Flinn is expected to put Pennsylvania in the Roosevelt column, and Perkins is looked to for funds to finance the campaign everywhere.

At The Theatre

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS."

"The Shepherd of the Hills," the dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, which holds the record for the largest sales of any work of fiction, which has been made by Mr. Wright, with the assistance of Elsbury W. Reynolds, will be seen at the Myers theatre, Sunday, Aug. 25, matinee and evening.

The scenes of the play are laid among the Ozark mountains of Missouri. It is a story of the hills and the simple life, yet it has plenty of excitement and an air of mystery that will hold the auditor from beginning to end.

The story has to do with the father of an artist, who, tired of city life, goes into the Ozarks for peace and quietude. He learns of a grievous sin committed by his son, whom he mourns as dead. The son has visited cuts, and thus manacled proposes and is accepted by the divinity upon whom his choice has fallen.

"Officer 666" is an unusual play. It makes you laugh. It keeps you guessing while it administers some delightful surprises in the way of unexpected thrills that are particularly pleasant to receive and agreeable to recall.

A GILT EDGE OFFERING.

Billy (Single) Clifford and his merry company of thirty-five clever artists, with an all girlie chorus will be the offering at the Myers Theatre on Thursday Aug. 8 for one night in the merry musical farce, "The Girl, The Man and The Game."

Billy is well known to the theater loving public of this city, and is offering in this season an attraction even high above the usual high standard maintained by him, and "The Girl, The Man and The Game" (?) has the hills some years before, when he fell in love with a simple country girl. He painted her picture when he went back to the city, deserting the girl. He earned fame because of the canvas. The girl, deserted and broken-hearted, dies, leaving behind her a half-witted son.

It is to the home of this dead and wronged girl that the father of the artist comes, and here he is employed to watch the sheep. He grows to love the country and its people, and he and the half-witted boy, Pete, become friends. Then there is a love story running through the play that adds to its attractiveness. It is the love of a young giant of the hills for Sammy Lane, a girl of unusual qualities. There are several characters whose quaint humor is a decided novelty. Taken as a whole, the play promises to prove a refreshing change from the general run of dramatic attractions this season.

Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty, the producers, are said to have given the play an elaborate mounting, the mountains of the Ozark affording an opportunity for some fine examples of the scenic painter's art. The cast has been selected for their peculiar fitness for each type.

"OFFICER 666."

The coolest crook and the most blasé lover in the whole world are to be found in the cast of "Officer 666," Augustin MacHugh's farce, which is booked for a hearing in this city at the Myers theatre, Tuesday, Oct. 7. The crook calmly assumes the name and occupies the house of the absent millionaire and nonchalantly proceeds to rifle the residence of its valuable paintings, while the lover, who is mistaken by the police for the picture thief they are trailing, gets his wrists ornamented with a pair of steel hand-proven the greatest success of his career, having toured the country for forty weeks the past season, being one of the few attractions that gave universal satisfaction.

It is a mixture of farce and light comedy with musical interruptions of which there are sixteen, and none of which intrude upon the other, and this pleasing combination with all suggestiveness removed, forms the nucleus of a very pleasing two hours of fun and enjoyment. Billy has in his support an exceptionally clever company with a bevy of pretty singing and dancing girls, the scenic and electrical effects up to his regular standing and wardrobe galore that is bright clean and gorgeous, and there is no doubt that his engagement here will prove one of the most acceptable offerings of the present theatrical season.

There are 18 tuneful catchy songs like the kind that linger in your mind for many moons among them being.

House of A Thousand Candles

In speaking of "The House of a Thousand Candles" the attraction at the Myers Theatre on Sunday Aug. 11 Mat. and Evening the Chicago Tribune says: "If you like mystery you will derive pleasure from seeing 'The House of a Thousand Candles' at the Carriek where it opened last night and kept a large audience unusually well entertained. It is just a story, not a stage transcript from life, but the story is cleverly devised and interesting one, and holds attention from first curtain to the last. It's a good entertainment of the highest grade dramatic kind, and if the theatre-going public doesn't patronize liberally, then it will be because the public's taste has changed nightly. In the last few days."

WARM WAVE COMING SAYS FORECASTER

Warm Weather Next Week, Says Foster, Followed By Cool Wave.

Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent Aug. 14 to 18, warm wave 12 to 17, cool wave 16 to 20. First part of this disturbance will be a continuance of the great hot wave of August and a continuance of the drought. Not a general drought but a drought in sections or spots with thunder spotshowers in other spots.

Last part of this disturbance crossing continent Aug. 16 to 20 will bring unusually cool weather with an increase of rain in many places. While this cool wave is crossing the continent light frosts are expected in northern spring wheat sections. A great fall in temperature will follow the passage of the warm wave.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about August 20, cross Pacific slope about close of 21, great central valleys 22 to 24, eastern sections 24. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Aug. 20, great central valleys 22, eastern sections 24. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Aug. 23, great central valleys 25, eastern sections 27.

With this disturbance moderate temperatures are expected and less than usual rainfall as a general average but thunder showers will continue giving to a few favored localities some relief from the severe drought and hot weather.

I am expecting less than usual rain during August and September but the thunder showers will continue to relieve some places, both from excessive heat and drought.

Cotton, late corn and spring wheat is expected to be damaged by the heat and drought in some places, probably in more than half of the corn and cotton sections and for these crops we may safely calculate production less than the ten year average.

The week centering on September 20 is expected to be the warmest and driest of the month. This will delay the frosts and give northern spring wheat time to mature. Dry weather in September is most to be feared.

I cannot agree with the scientists of our national agricultural department. As I see it plant life consists of a current of electricity passing down the stem and into the earth. Damp soil is necessary because dry soil will not conduct the electrical current and a soil largely composed of vegetable mould is better than clay because the former is the better conductor.

Dry farming will often succeed because a pulverized, dry, level surface will hold the necessary moisture. Pulverized iron ore adds largely to plant growth because it increased the electric current.

The life force of plants, the electric current comes from space, carries plant food and enters the plant through the bottom surface of the leaves, depositing the plant food where needed. The electric current passes into the earth. Gases that are generated in the plant by the current and not used by the plant pass up the outer sections of the stem and out of the plant through the under surface of the leaves and this is called the respiration or breathing process of the plant.

A government scientist is seldom progressive. They can draw their salaries without the hard study necessary to progress. If they would give up the old foolish idea that plant food comes from the soil and study agriculture from the standpoint of electricity being the life force of plant life we might hope for progress.

The scientific world must accept electro-magnetism as the life force of the universe, the older system of planetary organisms, animal and vegetable life, the activities of the ether and the atom, condensing the attenuated matter of space and carrying it to centers of the universe.

To the People of Clinton and Vicinity

THERE is a movement on foot by a few persons in Clinton to bring about a sale of the Clinton Telephone Company to the Wisconsin (Bell) Telephone Company.

If the movement is successful it will result in an increase of 33 1-3% on long distance rates to points you now reach over the Independent Toll Lines, and also reduce the time limit on conversations one third, because the Bell Company will naturally send all long distance messages over its own toll lines.

To illustrate, you now pay 10 cents to talk 3 minutes to Janesville, Darien and Sharon over the Independent lines. The Bell rate from Clinton to the same points is 15 cents for 2 minutes conversation.

The time limit to all Independent points is three minutes. Within the past month parties in Clinton have made us a proposition to sell to us the Clinton Telephone Co., claiming that they controlled it. The price asked was something over $225.00 for each $100.00 of Clinton Telephone Co. stock, a price so preposterous that we could not entertain it. They told us the Wisconsin (Bell) Telephone Co. had practically offered them that price.

If the people of Clinton and vicinity want reasonable telephone rates to continue, they should "get busy" and put a stop to the attempt of the Bell Company to acquire the Clinton Independent plant. It is the disagreement the Clinton Company has had with the Bergen Telephone Co., about a connection, and the threatened opening of a new bank in Clinton by the Bergen people, that has prompted some of the Clinton Telephone Co. stockholders to sell out. Do the people of Clinton and vicinity desire to "pull chestnuts out of the fire" for those gentlemen?

class grocer, and to prove it you'll see that grocer's delivery wagon in front of their house every day. But see that it's always a dinky little package—a loaf of bread, or half a pound of cheese, and once I happened to be on the spot when it was just a cake of yeast.

"Now, I'm not ashamed to take a string shopping bag and fill it at the market. If my husband goes along, he takes a basket. Occasionally I meet some woman I know, also shopping at the market. Sometimes the husband is along, too. And every last one of them will dodge you if they see you first, or apologize for being there if you speak to them."

"Last Saturday evening," laughed the plump matron, "I spotted the president of one of our societies there. My husband and I were frankly laying in a stock of things to eat and we didn't care who saw us. But this woman and her husband, when we saw them dicker for a slab of bacon, tried to sneak around the corner of the stall out of our sight. But I was too tickled to let them get away—she always puts on such awful airs, you know. So I sailed up breezily and she had to stop and recognize me."

"Do you peahilly shop heah?" said she, in isy accents. "Raah-ly, this is the fust time I have been in the place, but I told my husband it would be such a lark to come over and watch the people."

"At the same time," giggled the plump matron, "I saw the end of a string bag hanging out of hubby's coat pocket."

FIVE CENT ADVANCE ON THE HOG MARKET

New High Mark For The Year Was Reached When Several Loads Brought $8.65 Cattle Steady.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Aug. 6.—Another advance of five cents on the hog market set a new high mark for the year this morning. Several loads of light hogs brought $8.65 while the majority of sales were from $8.25 to $8.50. Receipts were about as expected at 13,000 head and the demand continued strong until disposed of.

The cattle market was steady with no price changes. Sheep receipts were heavy and the market slow. Following are the quotations:

Cattle—Receipts 6,500; market steady: heaves 5.75@10.00; Texas steers 4.00@7.10; western steers 5.75@8.10; stockers and feeders 4.00@6.85; cows and heifers 2.70@8.35; calves 6.75@10.00.

Hogs—Receipts 13,000; market strong, 5c higher; light 7.55@8.55; mixed 7.55@8.60; heavy 7.55@8.40; rough 7.35@7.55; pigs 5.90@8.35; bulk of sales 7.55@8.45.

Sheep—Receipts 63,000; market slow, generally steady; native 3.25@4.75; western 3.50@4.65; yearlings 4.40@5.65; lambs, native 4.50@7.75; western 4.50@7.80.

Butter—Steady; creameries 25@25; dairies 21@25.

DEATH RATE SHOWS A SLIGHT INCREASE

Important Decrease, However, in Number of Deaths From Certain Diseases During Spring Months.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Aug. 6.—During April, May and June, 1912, 7,079 deaths were reported to the state bureau of vital statistics by the various local registrars in townships, incorporated villages and cities of Wisconsin. This is exclusive of stillbirths and corresponds to an annual death rate for the state of 11.8 per thousand estimated population. The rate in 1911 was 11.7 and in 1910 was 11.6, the 1912 rate being slightly in excess of the average for this season of the year.

The report shows a decrease in the number of deaths from certain diseases compared with the second quarter of 1911, as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis, 24; typhoid fever 10; diphtheria 10; measles, 28; pneumonia 41; meningitis 64; influenza 23; puerperal septicemia 24; and violence 65. There was an increase in the number of deaths from the following diseases: Other tuberculosis 27; scarlet fever 20; whooping-cough 9; cancer 52; and stillbirths 60.

Comparison of deaths reported by age groups shows an increase of 38 in the number of deaths among children under one year of age; of 24 in the age group from one to four; and of 77 in those 65 years or over.

Important causes of death with the number of deaths from each disease were as follows: Pulmonary tuberculosis 359; other tuberculosis 116; typhoid fever 10; diphtheria 46; scarlet fever 7; measles 58; whooping cough 62; pneumonia 597; diarrhea enteritis under two years 159; meningitis 55; influenza 28; puerperal septicemia 18; cancer 410; violence 353; stillbirths 65.

The northern section of the state has a death rate for this period of 10.4 per thousand estimated population, while the central section is 11.5, and the rate for the southern section is 12.8.

Deaths from violence during this period were: Accidental drowning 100; suicides 76; railroad accidents 40; accidental burns 21; accidental gunshot wounds 12; from accidents to machinery 13; from horse vehicles and horses 11; accidental poisoning 10; accidental suffocation 8; street-car accidents 4; lightning 4; homicides 3; uterine accidents 2; automobile accidents 2; heat prostration 1.

There were two deaths from tetanus, one from smallpox, and six from infantile paralysis. The latter were distributed by counties as follows: One each in Milwaukee, Rock, Trempealeau, Waupaca, Waukesha and Winnebago.

See The Automatic Telephone

Putnam's Store. Everybody Welcome

THE Rock County Telephone Company came into the field in 1899 to provide Janesville people with good service at fair rates. The Rock County Company is owned and managed by Janesville people and through improved service and lower rates has forced its competitor to lower their rates and improve their service to meet the demands of all the people. Prior in 1899 there were about 300 telephones in Janesville. Now the Rock County Company has 2300 telephones here and connections with thousands of other Independent telephones in adjacent territory. Although the number of connections available has been increased many-fold, there has been no increase in the rates.

THE Rock County Company's original switchboard and telephone equipment is still in use. The growth of the exchange has been so great that we now feel that more modern equipment should be installed. We have investigated the equipment market and find that the Automatic Telephone is without comparison for accurate, quick and dependable service. This equipment is in use in all parts of the United States and in many foreign countries and everywhere is preferred by the users to the manual equipment.

TO install an Automatic Exchange in Janesville will require an expenditure of about $85,000. In order to provide the necessary money a very moderate increase in rental rates will be necessary.

IT is our desire that our subscribers have the best telephone service obtainable. The Automatic Service is more nearly perfect than any other. We have had the manufacturers furnish us a small Automatic Switchboard for exhibition to our subscribers. We urge telephone users and particularly Rock County subscribers to come to Putnam's store to see and use the Automatic Telephone. There are competent attendants in charge who will be glad to explain its operation. This mechanical marvel is well worth a visit.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Our Changing View of Marriage

IN one of the large cities of our country a woman graduated this summer as a doctor in order to assist her husband. He is a physician and after their marriage she saw so many ways in which she could be useful to him if she understood his work that she determined to qualify. So she took a course in one of the leading medical schools and graduated with honors.

Her husband was present at the commencement, and when the college festivities were over and the two returned to their native town he took her into partnership with him in his work.

This certainly is a change from old-time concepts of married life. The wife always has been a partner. But seldom has she been publicly recognized as such, and more infrequently still has she had her full share of the profits.

But this partnership is on a still more progressive basis. For she is not even a partner in the ordinary sense—that she is to take care of the home and he of the business end of the affairs. She is an actual partner in his business. She has fitted herself for it as carefully as has he. And the two work together in it for their common good, she taking the parts she can best handle, he the ones which are his specialty.

Here indeed is marriage on a new basis. And it is a marriage in keeping with the spirit of the times. More and more it is coming to be felt that if a married woman wishes to take up some work, other than that of managing a home, she should be free to do so. This does not in any way belittle housekeeping. To run a house right requires just as much brain-work and is quite as important as to practice medicine. The woman who prefers to be a housekeeper should be one. But if she doesn't want to take up this vocation, if her talent lies in other lines, she should be free to follow her bent, and to put her household affairs into the hands of the woman who has chosen this work.

And the action of this woman who has decided to practice medicine with her husband shows that as the scope of woman's work widens, our views of married life are broadening.

THE SOUVENIR HUNTER.

WHAT is a thief? That sounds like a simple question, doesn't it? And yet I know a great many people who apparently do not know how to define that term.

Just recently a young girl who belongs to an excellent family, and who has always seemed to me like a girl of principle, showed me with pride a collection of souvenir spoons bearing the monograms of various hotels. "Jack is collecting them for me," she said. "You know he attends so many of those athletic banquets, and he almost always manages to bring me a spoon as a souvenir."

Jack is her fiancé. We are often told that one of the first duties of women is to inspire their men folk to live up to higher moral standards.

Again, the travelers who visit places of historic interest are notoriously among those who do not know how to define the term "thief." How the homes of famous people, which have been thrown open to the public have suffered from these kleptomaniacs, only the caretakers really know. Nothing is too small, nothing too large and nothing too sacred for the souvenir hunter to bear away. I believe it was Beethoven's piano which was entirely robbed of its ivory by this variety of thief.

Now perhaps you think it is only the intellectually lower class of people who commit such outrages. Don't you believe it. Surely we might expect to find the real upper classes of society in the colleges if anywhere. And yet I remember hearing a college girl tell that the hotels always charge an unusually large sum for a college dinner because they had to reckon on the silver they would lose.

On a recent sea trip I had an insight into one of the saddest features of this souvenir hunting. Tell me, Mrs. Souvenir Hunter, when you make way with a spoon or a butter plate or some other bit of bric-a-brac, from whom do you think you are stealing? You don't like that word? It's the right one, but I'll pamper you this time—from whom do you think you are collecting this souvenir? The hotel, you say, or the company. Sometimes, perhaps, but not always. Let me tell you how the matter is arranged on the ship in which I traveled, and how it probably is arranged in many cases. At the end of the trip the china and silver is counted, the loss reckoned and divided among the table stewards, and that loss, an officer assured me, often comes to $10 or $15 a trip.

Think of it, $10 or $15 stolen every few days from those poor folks, by people who must be at least decently off.

The thief who steals her jewels from a wealthy woman is a greater criminal in the eyes of the law than this kind of thief, but to my mind he isn't half so despicable.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Harrietta D. Grouse

The time has passed when it was considered the proper thing for children to be seen and not heard; now an interest in passing events absorbs their attention and we find them entertaining their friends in the most up-to-date ways.

Young hostesses like to say to their little guests, "I did this or that all myself." With the following recipes dainty little sweets can be made by those just beginning to study the delights and mysteries that center around the candy kettle and cake board.

Birthday Cakes—Mix in this order: One and one-half cups of sugar, one-half cup of butter, two beaten eggs. Sift two cups flour with two teaspoons of baking powder, add to the above with a cup of milk, flavor and put into small well greased pans; just before putting in the oven place a few seeded raisins on each cake. When baked, frost with colored candy drops.

Chocolate Kisses—Beat the whites of three eggs to a stand alone froth; add three tablespoons of powdered sugar and one tablespoon of grated chocolate to each egg. Drop by teaspoonfuls into oiled paper. Bake very slowly in a moderate oven.

Marshmallow Alice—Make suitable decorations for a party cake; shape the marshmallows with the fingers into an oval form quite pointed at the end extended for the head, with a needle threaded two double put in the whiskers. For the eyes use tiny candy drops of a little cake coloring. The ears are made from tiny squares of white paper folded diagonally and pushed into the head, the tail of coarse white thread can be pushed in place with the scissor's point. Roll the mice in granulated sugar and set aside until the cake is cooled, and while the frosting is still moist stick them on. A dozen mice on the cake of ordinary size will not be too many.

Delight Cookies—One cup of butter, two cups of sugar, two eggs, four cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon of lemon extract. Roll the dough out thin and sprinkle with chopped nuts and raisins and sugar. Cut in fancy shapes and bake in a quick oven.

Uncooked Icing, suitable for a large cake or for cup cakes, may be made with sifted powdered confectioner's sugar and enough cream to make it of the right consistency to spread. This may be tinted any color and flavored in a dozen different ways.

Everton Taffy—One pound of best brown sugar, two tablespoons of butter, three tablespoons of water and three tablespoons of vinegar; let this boil until it hardens in water, then flavor and pour onto a marble slab or into buttered pans to cool. If nuts are to be added put them in after the candy is cooked.

Atlantic City Caramels—Two pounds of sugar, two tablespoons of butter, a pinch of cream of tartar, two tablespoons of grated chocolate and a teaspoonful of grated paraffine wax. Mix these together and add one cup of cream; cook gently until it threads from the spoon, do not stir it while it is boiling.

Pour the cooked mixture into well buttered pans and when almost cool mark in cubes. The paraffine is added to give a gloss to the caramels; they may be wrapped in oiled paper and placed in boxes where they will keep indefinitely and improve in flavor with keeping.

Ice Cream Candy to Pull—One cup of sugar, one-third of a cup of water, one tablespoon of butter, a bit of cream of tartar, boil fifteen minutes or until it hardens in water. Do not stir it. Flavor and pour on buttered tins, when cool enough pull it until creamy white.

Popcorn Brittle, or "Crackerjack"—Put New Orleans molasses until it threads from a spoon, then stir in as much baking soda as will just cover the end of a knife or the tip of a spoon; now add freshly popped corn and hickory nut or walnut meat. Take from the fire and salin so that every kernel is separate and each is covered with the sugar.

The KITCHEN CABINET

IF you could once make up your mind never to undertake more work of any sort than you can carry on calmly, without hurry or flurry, and the instant you feel yourself growing nervous and like one out of breath, would stop and take breath, you would find this simple common sense rule doing for you what no prayers or tears could ever accomplish.

NICE DESSERTS.

A most delicious baked apple is a dessert which is both wholesome and appetizing. It would seem that there was not much more to learn in the art of baking apples, but try these: Wash and prepare the fruit for baking by scooping out the stem and making a hollow, by getting out as much of the core without going through to the blossom end. The well that is left is filled with sugar, a bit of butter and a tablespoonful of water. Pour water around the fruit and bake as usual. The apple holds all the flavor, and it is much better than baked in the old-fashioned way. Nuts, raisins and any desired addition to change the flavor and add variety will be thought out by the housewife.

French Cherry Tarts—Roll out a thin puff paste or a plain one if that is not convenient and line a flat cake tin. Fill this with cherries mixed with sugar and cinnamon, slip into a paper bag and bake twenty minutes. Pour over more juice or sirup if needed and serve hot.

Sweet Banana Pasties—Roll out some rich pastry in oblongs or squares, spread with apricot marmalade, and upon this put a half a banana not too ripe, sprinkle with powdered sugar and ground cinnamon. Wet the edges, fold over and crimp the ends. Brush with a little milk, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven.

Cherry Roly Poly—Mix a rich biscuit dough, roll out and spread with pitted, sweetened cherries, roll up, wet with milk and sprinkle with sugar and bake in a hot oven. Serve with sugar and cream.

Banana Souffle—Take four bananas, peel them and pour over a little lemon juice. Have ready a buttered baking dish. Separate the yolks from two eggs, adding a quarter cup of sugar; beat to a cream. Cream four tablespoonfuls of butter, add a half cup of flour and stir in the yolks of the eggs. When well mixed put the bananas through a sieve and add to the mixture. Beat the whites and fold in just at the last. Bake in a moderate oven until firm.

Oranges sliced and a sprinkling of lemon juice added, sprinkled generously with coconut and powdered sugar, is a quick and acceptable dessert.

Nellie Maxwell.

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Do you know of anything that will remove spots from a mahogany dressing table where toilet water or perfume has been spilled on it? Mrs. S. F. McK.

Many recommended a light rubbing with spirits of camphor, but I am told that it is better to get some "roton earth" from a painter, moisten this with sewing machine oil, and apply.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—How may I make my tan shoes look nice? They are light tan and soil easily.

Clean the stains with lemon. Rub the lemon over the whole shoe. You can then polish the shoe nicely with banana peel.

There are prepared materials for cleaning and polishing tan shoes in the stores, which are very good and inexpensive.

THE "SAVE THE BABIES" MOVEMENT.

I do not know just when this movement first started, nor when it became a national movement, however I am sure it has been within the last few years.

Some years ago a few of the states and a number of the larger cities began to gather birth and death statistics. These statistics showed an appalling death rate in infants and in children under two years. A search for the cause was immediately begun. As a result of this investigation the "Child Welfare Campaign" was started. About this time there came into existence "The American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality." This association has for its object: "The improvement of social conditions, the public control of sources of infection, education for parenthood, the education of mothers in the essentials of personal hygiene and of infant feeding, the encouragement of maternal nursing."

The growth and development of these various movements has been phenomenal. The public has caught their significance, as is evidenced by the immense interest that is taken in these various movements, for instance a national interest was manifested in the child welfare exhibit which was held at the Coliseum in Chicago a few months ago.

It is now conceded by the best authorities on the subject of preventive medicine that the diseases and conditions which are responsible for the appalling mortality of infants and children are preventable. The first and foremost factor in this campaign is the education of the public.

Quoting from the mortality statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, under the heading, "Causes of Death," we find that for infants under 1 and 2 years of age that died in 1910, diarrhoea and enteritis constituted the most important cause of death. To be exact, the percentage was 37.6%. According to the report of the department of health of the city of Chicago, we find that diarrheal diseases caused 30.6% of the deaths among children under 2 years of age. Including other diseases of the digestive system as convulsions and gastritis, the percentage is 36.9%, making the percentage the highest by far of any other cause of infant mortality. Diarrheal diseases are easily preventable. Statistics prove that it is in the first year of the child's life that the greatest number of deaths occur. This is contrary to the general supposition that the second summer is the most trying one of the child's life. Since improper food, improper feeding and insanitary surroundings are the causes of these diseases, the prevention lies in educating the mothers and those responsible for the welfare of the child.

The department of health of the city of Chicago maintains a school of sanitary instruction which is open to the public. This department has only been organized a little more than two years, but the work it has already accomplished is quite noticeable in the lowering of the infant mortality rate.

It is hoped that the health departments of the smaller cities will follow Chicago's example. This paper stands ready, through this department, to offer any assistance in its power by way of suggestion towards this end.

In succeeding articles we will take up the question of the prevention of the diseases of infants and giving timely suggestions.

boy is walking with two girls should be in the middle? (2)—When two girls and one boy get on a car that has seats for two only, how should they sit? (3)—How often should a boy call on a girl? EIGHTTEEN.

(1)—According to etiquette he should walk next to the curb. (2)—The girls should be seated. (3)—Twice a week ought to be enough.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—I have many small, and smooth warts on my left hand. How can I remove them? (2)—My two cousins, young ladies, are coming to visit me soon. What would be a suitable gift to give them? (3)—I am almost seventeen but short. Please tell me a nice way to fix my hair and how long I should wear dresses.

INQUISITIVE.

(1)—Ask your doctor about this. (2)—You should not give presents to your guests, in addition to entertaining them. (3)—Wear it waved back from the face and in two low coils at the back. Wear skirts to your shoptops.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Can you tell me of some firm that buys poems and short stories? LONELY.

Send your material to any of the magazines. If they want it they will buy it.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a widow, fifty-one years old, with two sons and wish to beg a little advice about one of them, nineteen years old. He loves all amusements, but he hates to work. Every evening he dresses in his best clothes and goes to see his sweetheart. He is no drinker, smoker or gambler, but is lazy.

I would under no circumstances drive him out, for I love him. All his boy and girl friends are working, and his sweetheart is looking high and low for a position for him, but every time she gets one he refuses saying he is "sick." I have pleaded with him to turn a new leaf and work. He always replies, "Mother, I will," but he has been saying that the last three years. His weekly expenses for amusements with girl friends are $5.

BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

If you really love this boy, Mother, and wish to do what is best for him stop talking to him and act. Refuse to give him spending money. Let him have a place to sleep in the house, if you will, but do not board him unless he pays you for it. He is old enough to be earning something and not living off of his widowed mother.

Don't let him wheedle you into providing for him; when it is for his own good that you should be firm and even harsh, if necessary.

MONODIET DECREASES DANGER FROM WASTE.

A French physician has shown that when the habit of eating meat and other animal protein foods, especially eggs, is once established, bacilli are developed that live on the waste from the protein and that when meat is discontinued from the ration the swarms of bacilli left without work do serious injury, much as rats turn to eating books and clothing when the supply of exposed food on which they have lived is withdrawn. The various classes of bacteria that dispose of waste matter differ as the food differs upon whom waste they live. The system establishes defenses against these much as settlers in a new region trap one kind of vermin, shoot another and poison another. When the system has only one kind of waste to take care of, to antidote, the problem is greatly simplified, so that the defenses against disease, the disease overcoming capacity, is greatly increased. This is only another angle for viewing the monodiet, absolute or approximate, as a means of maintaining health and efficiency and of overcoming disease.

WISCONSIN WOMAN'S FORTUNE

Freed From Pain, Weakness, Terrible Backache and De-spair by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Colons, Wis.—"For three years I was troubled with female weakness, irregularities, backache and bearing down pains. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound and decided to try it. After taking several bottles I found it was helping me, and I must say that I am perfectly well now and cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound has done for me."

Mrs. JOHN WENTLAND, R.F.D., No. 3, Box 60, Colons, Wis.

Women who are suffering from these distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

There are probably hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over 30 years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering. If you are sick and need such a medicine, why don't you try it?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

REPLIES TO CRITICS OF NEW LAND POLICY

Dr. Charles McCarthy Says: State Aid or Control is Needed to Keep Immigrants in Wisconsin.

Criticism of the proposed new land policy for the state, under which colonies of settlers would be established under the communal plan, incited Dr. Charles McCarthy of the legislative reference bureau to reply in an interview. Dr. McCarthy's department is co-operating with the state board of public affairs in a study of the proposed movement. He said:

"Some of the criticisms of the proposed land and immigration plans of the public affairs board astonish me because of the ignorance displayed and the dog in the manger spirit. Some kind of state control or aid must come if immigrants will remain in the state instead of going to Canada. We must do what Canada is doing in order to compete at all. "The question which the people of Wisconsin should consider is: Do we want settlers for the 10,000,000 acres of fertile, cut-over land in upper Wisconsin? If we do want them, we have got to go after them intelligently. We have to face our problems squarely and not dodge them as we have been doing. Merely advertising privately-owned lands at the state expense isn't going to solve our land problem. We need to advertise the opportunities Wisconsin has to offer to settlers, but we need first of all to open up these opportunities. Most of the stump land is fertile land, and the people of Wisconsin ought to have the use of it."

Dr. McCarthy noted that some of the provinces of eastern Canada have taken steps to provide systems of state aid to farmers, and that Ontario has appropriated $5,000,000 to promote the settlement of the northern part of that province where there are 10,000,000 acres of fertile, unoccupied land. Conditions in northern Ontario are described as much like those in upper Wisconsin. "Canada has been forced to resort to these programs of state aid by the competition of Australia and New Zealand for settlers in Great Britain."

"If the people of New Zealand can manage a system like this," concluded Dr. McCarthy, "and do it successfully under a democratic form of government, the people of Wisconsin can surely be trusted to do something to solve the solution of their land problem. In fact, we have got to do it or the immigrant will pass on to Canada where they do provide for him."

still loved you." "Ah," said Buckingham, "my death, then, will not be to her as the death of a stranger. Patrick, bring me the casket in which the diamond studs were kept and the sachet of white satin upon which her cipher is embroidered in pearls."

"Patrick obeyed." "Here, Laporte," said Buckingham, "these are the only remembrances I ever received from her, this silver casket and these letters. You will restore them to her majesty, and as a last memorial—he looked round for some valuable object—"you will add—"

His eyes, darkened by death, met with nothing but Felton's knife. "And you will add to them this knife," said the duke, pressing the hand of Laporte. Then in a last convulsion he slipped off the sofa on the floor. At this moment the duke's surgeon arrived. He took the duke's hand, held it for an instant in his own and, letting it fall, said:

"All is useless; he is dead." "Dead! Dead!" screamed Patrick. "As soon as Lord de Winter saw Buckingham was dead he ran to Felton, whom the soldiers still guarded on the terrace."

"Miserable wretch," said he to the young man, who had regained his coolness and self-possession, "what hast thou done?"

"I have avenged myself," said he. "Avenged yourself?" said the baron. "Rather say that you have served as an instrument to that accursed woman. But I swear to you that this crime shall be her last crime."

"I don't know what you mean," replied Felton. "I killed the Duke of Buckingham because he twice refused you yourself to appoint me captain. I have punished him for this injustice, that is all."

De Winter, quite stupefied, looked on while the soldiers bound Felton. One thing alone, however, threw a shade over the pallid brow of Felton. At every noise he heard the simple Puritan fancied he recognized the step and voice of Milady coming to meet death with him.

All at once he started. His eyes became fixed upon a point of the sea. He saw the sail of the ship, which was directed toward the coast of France.

He grew deadly pale, placed his hand upon his heart, which was breaking, and at once perceived all the treachery. Milady had advanced her departure by an hour and a half. As soon as he heard the cannon which announced the fatal event she had ordered the anchor to be weighed.

CHAPTER XLIII.

THE first fear of the King of England, Charles I., on learning of the death of the duke was that such terrible news might discourage the Rochellais. He endeavored, says Richelieu in his memoirs, to conceal it from them as long as possible, closing all the ports of his kingdom and carefully keeping watch that no vessel should go out until the army which Buckingham was getting together had set sail.

But as he did not think of giving this order till five hours after the event—that is to say, till 2 o'clock in the afternoon—two vessels had already left the port—the one bearing, as we know, Milady. As to the second vessel, we will tell hereafter whom it carried and how it set sail.

During all this time nothing fresh occurred in the camp at La Rochelle; only the king, who grew weary, resolved to go incognito and spend the festival of St. Louis at St. Germain's, and asked the counts to order him an escort of twenty musketeers only. M. de Treville fixed upon our friends to form part of the escort.

The four young men heard the news a quarter of an hour after M. de Treville, for they were the first to whom he communicated it.

It must be admitted that their impatience to return toward Paris had for cause the danger which Mlle. Bonacieux would run of meeting at the convent of Bethune with Milady. Aramis, therefore, had written immediately to the seamstress at Tours to obtain from the queen authority for Mme. Bonacieux to leave the convent and to retire either into Lorraine or Belgium. A week after Aramis received the following letter:

My Dear Cousin—With this you will receive the order from my sister to withdraw our little servant from the convent of Bethune, the air of which you think does not agree with her. My sister sends you this order with great pleasure, for she is very partial to the little girl, to whom she intends to be more servicable hereafter. I salute you.

MARIE MICHON.

In this letter was inclosed an order conceived in these terms: The superior of the convent of Bethune will place in the hands of the person who shall present this note to her the novice who entered the convent upon my recommendation and under my patronage.

ANNE.

At the Louvre, Aug. 10, 1633. The 23d in the night. The king thanked M. de Treville and permitted him to distribute leaves of absence for four days.

The four first leaves granted, as may be imagined, were to our four friends. Still further, Athos obtained of M. de Treville six days instead of four and introduced into these six days two more nights, for they set out on the 24th at 5 o'clock in the evening, and as a further kindness M. de Treville post dated the leave to the 25th in the morning. Said D'Artagnan:

"In two days and by knocking up two or three horses (which I care little about, as I have plenty of money) I am at Bethune. I present my letter from the queen to the superior, and I bring back the dear treasure I go to seek, not into Lorraine, not into Belgium, but to Paris, where she will be much better concealed, particularly while the cardinal is at La Rochelle. Remain, then, where you are and do not exhaust yourselves with useless fatigue. Myself and Planchet. That is all that such a simple expedition as this requires."

To this Athos replied quietly: "Consider, D'Artagnan, Bethune is a city at which the cardinal has appointed to meet Milady. If you had only to deal with four men, D'Artagnan, I would allow you to go alone. You have to do with that woman. We will go."

On the evening of the 25th as they were entering Arras and as D'Artagnan was dismounting at the inn of the Golden Candlestick to drink a glass of wine a horseman came out of the posting yard, where he had just had a relay, starting off at a gallop and with a fresh horse and taking the road to Paris. At the moment he was passing through the gateway into the street the wind blew open the cloak in which he was enveloped, although it was the month of August, and lifted his hat, which the traveler seized with his hand at the moment it had left his head and pulled it down eagerly over his eyes.

D'Artagnan, who had his eyes fixed upon this man, became very pale and let his glass fall. Then he ran toward the door, but was stopped by his friends.

"Where are you going to now in this fashion?" cried Athos.

"It is he!" cried D'Artagnan. "Let me overtake him. That cursed man, my evil genius, he who accompanied the horrible woman when I met her for the first time! To horse, gentlemen, to horse! Let us pursue him!"

"My dear friend," said Aramis, "remember that it is in an opposite direction to that in which we are going, that he has a fresh horse and ours are fatigued. Let the man go. Let us save the woman."

"Monsieur, monsieur," cried a stableman, running out and looking after the unknown, "monsieur, here is a paper which dropped out of your hat, monsieur!"

"Friend," said D'Artagnan, "a half pistol for that paper."

"Monsieur, with great pleasure. Here it is."

The stableman, delighted with the good day's work he had done, went into the yard again. D'Artagnan unfolded the paper.

"Nothing but one word," said he. "Yes," said Aramis, "but that one word is the name of some town or village."

"Armentieres," read Porthos. "And that name of a town or village is written in her hand!" cried Athos. "Come on, then; come on, then," said D'Artagnan. "Let us keep that paper carefully. Perhaps I have not thrown away my half pistol. To horse, my friends, to horse!"

And the four friends galloped off on the road to Bethune.

Milady landed at Boulogne after a two days' voyage. She only remained long enough at Boulogne to put into the post this letter to Richelieu: Monseigneur, let your eminence be reassured. His grace the Duke of Buckingham will not set out for France.

MILADY DE

Boulogne, evening of the 25th. P. S.—According to the desire of your eminence, I am going to the convent of the Carmelites of Bethune, where I will await your orders.

At 8 o'clock the next morning she entered Bethune. She inquired for the convent of the Carmelites and went to it immediately.

The superior came out to her. Milady showed her the cardinal's order. The abbess assigned her a chamber and had breakfast served. After breakfast the abbess came to pay her visit.

Milady wished to please the abbess. She was charming, winning the good superior by her varied conversation about the court and by the graces spread over her whole person. But she was greatly embarrassed. She did not know whether the abbess was a royalist or a cardinalist. She therefore confined herself to a prudent middle course. But the abbess, on her part, maintained a reserve still more prudent.

Milady began to conceive she should soon grow weary of a convent life. She resolved, then, to risk something in order that she might know how to act afterward. She began to tell a story, obscure at first, but very circumstantial afterward, of the cardinal, relating the amours of the minister.

The abbess listened more attentively, grew animated by degrees and smiled. Milady then went on to describe the persecutions exercised by the cardinal upon his enemies. The abbess only crossed herself without approving or disapproving.

This confirmed Milady in her opinion that the abbess was rather a royalist than a cardinalist.

"I am very little acquainted with all these matters," said the abbess, "but one of our pensioners has suffered much from the vengeance and persecution of M. le Cardinal. Imprisonment, menaces, ill treatment—she has suffered everything. But, after all, M. le Cardinal has, perhaps, plausible motives for acting thus."

"Good!" said Milady to herself. "Who knows? I am about, perhaps, to discover something here!"

"M. le Cardinal does not always pursue crimes," said she. "There are certain virtues that he possesses more severely than certain offenses."

"Permit me, madame, to express my surprise," said the abbess. "You don't speak well of the cardinal."

"That is because I am not his friend," said she, sighing, "but his victim!"

"Well, but this letter!"

"Is an order for me to confine myself to a sort of prison, from which he will release me by one of his satellites."

"But why have you not fled?"

"Whether should I go? Do you believe there is a spot on the earth which the cardinal cannot reach? This young pensioner of yours, has she endeavored to fly?"

"No; she is detained in France by some love affair."

"Ah," said Milady, with a sigh, "if she is in love she is not altogether wretched."

"Then," said the abbess, looking at her with increasing interest, "I behold another poor persecuted woman? You are not an enemy of our holy faith?"

"Who—?" cried Milady—"I a Protestant! Oh, no! I am a fervent Catholic!"

"Then, madame," said the abbess, smiling, "be reassured. We will do all in our power to make you in love with your captivity. You will find here, moreover, the young woman of whom I spoke. She is amiable and well behaved."

"What is her name?"

"She was sent to me by some one of high rank, under the name of Kitty. I have not endeavored to discover her other name."

"Kitty!" cried Milady to herself. "The abbess she said: 'And when can I see this young lady?'"

"Why, this evening," said the abbess, "today even. But you have been traveling these four days, as you told me. This morning you rose at 5 o'clock. You must stand in need of repose. Go to bed and sleep. At dinner time we will call you."

Milady was awakened by a soft voice which sounded at the foot of her bed. She opened her eyes, and saw the abbess, accompanied by a young woman. Her face was entirely unknown to Milady.

The abbess introduced them to each other. Then, as her duties called her, she left the two young women alone. The novice sat down.

UNCLE WALT The Fast Philosopher

Today I called at Beeswack's store to buy some boneless cheese. The rain was falling with a roar, the mud was to my knees. Old Beeswack and his merry clerks were pawing through the shelves, and cleaning up the whole blamed works as though they'd strain themselves. "Why not sit down," I said, "and rest, this wet and woolly day? No customer or monied guest will come along this way. Why not sit down and let things slide, and nurse your faded feet? Why not sit down and point with pride, and nuts and herrings ear?" Old Beeswack paused a moment brief, and said, with passing frown: "The greater part of human grief is caused by sitting down. When days are bad and trade is slack; the foolish merchant sits, and broods until he breaks his back and has conniption fits. And people coming to his joint will see him moaning there, and from his portals they'll aroint, and blow their scads elsewhere. And so I whoop around my store with high and active jumps, and no one's head is getting sore, and no one has the dumps." I bought three cans of potted snuff, and muttered, as I went: "It's better far to make a bluff than roll in discontent."

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

LEONIDAS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

Leonidas was a Spartan hero who earned a large bronze monument by holding the pass of Thermopylae with three hundred men and a shoestring.

Leonidas was king of Sparta at the time this occurred. Sparta was a small, irritable country about the size of a Florida town site, but it was never stepped upon with any success. The male population lived on cayenne pepper and rare beefsteak and practiced shooting at a mark eight hours a day. Every once in a while some foreign potentate would make up his mind to the Sparta to his chariot wheels and subdue her proud spirit, but he invariably returned home and kicked himself into a state of sweet somnolence.

Along about 480 B. C. Xerxes, king of Persia, became offended at something Sparta had said and decided to annex her in a hostile tone of voice. He accordingly rounded up a neat little army of 2,000,000 men and headed for the Grecian archipelago, which was about in the same place it is now.

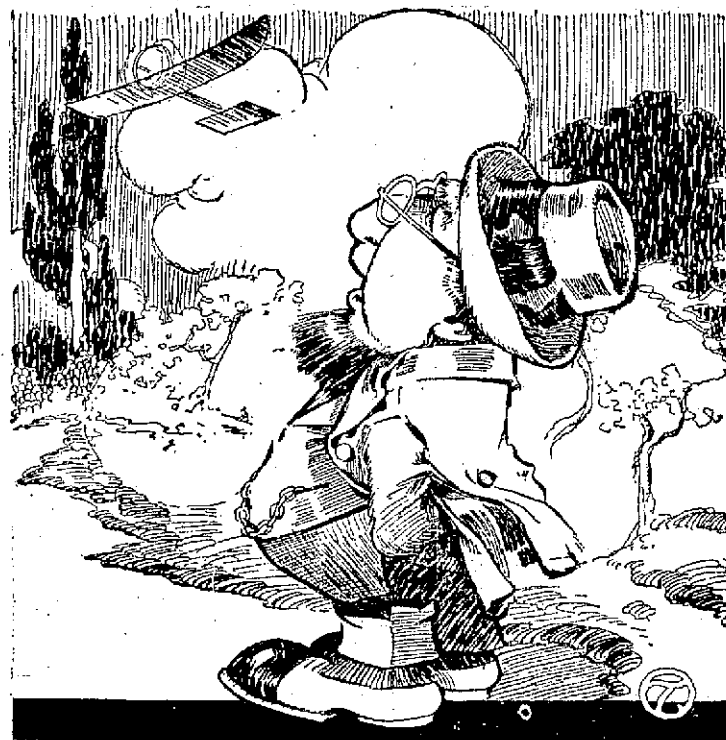

Xerxes did not get far before he ran into the pass of Thermopylae, which was a short cut between the mountains wide enough to allow two thin men to pass each other without being telescoped. Here Xerxes found Leonidas drawn up in battle array, defying the whole Persian army in some of the rudest Greek adjectives ever used.

Xerxes took the affair as a joke until Leonidas had spit a few thousand Persian husbands on his trusty sword, when he concluded that this was increasing the pension roll too fast and hired the only crooked Spartan ever discovered to lead his army through a pass in the mountains until he could get in Leonidas' rear.

When Leonidas discovered that he was surrounded he mounted a stump and announced that it was his present intention to die with his boots on, of words to that effect. He thereupon gave his three hundred men a nice course dinner, and after adjusting his boots charged the entire Persian army, which filled him so full of arrows that he had to be pin-feathered before being removed to the family residence.

Leonidas' name became at once a household word, and autographs and kodak pictures of the deceased were eagerly sought after. His death aroused so much indignation that the Spartans rose up and threw Xerxes across the Hellespont with chagrin written all over his profile. Leonidas did not die in vain, as he was turned into the impassioned high school graduate with some of the most vivid eloquence and weird rhetoric ever un-corked from an opera house stage.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Aug. 6, 1892.—Injured by a Falling Bank.—A boy named Martin Whalen, some sixteen years old, was injured by falling earth, this morning, in the excavation made on North Bluff street for the site of Hodge and Bucholz' new blacksmith shop. He was assisting in loading a wagon when a large fragment of earth broke from the overhanging bank and fell, burying him, with the exception of his head and arms. Some five minutes elapsed before the workmen were able to remove the earth sufficiently to free him from its weight. He was badly bruised and injured internally.

The Forenoon Hope Assemblies.—A Greeley meeting was held at Beloit last evening which was well enough patronized by the Grant men to give it a numerical strength of about three hundred. A melancholy spirit pervaded the assemblage. There was none of that earnest patriotism displayed which is the characteristic feature of Grant and Wilson meetings. Hon. I. C. Sloan, of this city addressed the meeting.

Brief Items.—The law term of the circuit court convenes Monday. Sportsmen are preparing for the duck season at Koshkonong. The grain in Rock county is nearly all cut.

A picnic in a beautiful grove, first ward, gotten up by the numerous friends of Dr. Hodge, was one of the enjoyable occasions of yesterday afternoon.

Overlooked.

Two lawyers before a probate judge recently got into a wrangle. At last one of the disputants, losing control over his emotions, exclaimed to his opponent:

"Sir, you are, I think, the biggest ass that I ever had the misfortune to set eyes upon."

"Order, order!" said the judge gravely. "You seem to forget that I am in the room."

Dr. C. H. Ellsworth, Dentist, 16 Baldwin St., Rochester, N. Y., says: Foley Kidney Pills gave him immediate relief and strengthened him wonderfully. "For some time past I have been bothered with weak kidneys and bladder trouble. Irregular action, pain, and dizzy spells all troubled me. Foley Kidney Pills gave me immediate relief and strengthened me wonderfully, I am pleased to recommend their use." Foley Kidney Pills are specially prepared for kidney and bladder ailments, and are always effective for rheumatism, backache, weak back and lumbago. Badger Drug Co.

HIGHLY EDUCATED.

Lady—I would like to have that parrot, but I'm afraid it might swear.
Dealer—Well, if she does, it will be in French.

LANDS

IF YOU ARE interested in real estate in the Northwest, you will do well to place an ad in the Want Columns of the Aberdeen Daily News, Aberdeen, S. D., the best advertising medium in this territory. Read every day by more than 25,000 people. Rates: 1 cent per word, first insertion, special rate by the week or month. Write for sample copy. 45-12

FARMS FOR SALE—Southwest Iowa is one of the richest agricultural districts in the world and the Daily Nonpareil is practically the only daily paper read in this territory. It is issued morning, evening and Sunday, and with the 17,000 circulation covers the field like a blanket. If you want results from your advertisement, try it. One cent a word for the first insertion, and one-half cent a word for each subsequent insertion. Classified in display, 25c an inch. The Daily Nonpareil, Council Bluffs, Iowa. 45-12

FIND LAND BUYERS through advertising in the Daily Journal-World, Lawrence, Kansas. The farm lands about Lawrence are the finest in Kansas and therefore are high priced. Young farmers are looking for cheaper farms. The Daily Journal-World has a sworn circulation of 5,500, about half of which is in the country, and carries a full page of Want Ads. Rates: 1c per word 1 time, 3/4c per word for one week. The World Company, Lawrence, Kansas. 43-12

ADVERTISERS—The great state of North Dakota, offers unlimited opportunities for business to classified advertisers. The recognized advertising medium is the Fargo Daily and Sunday Courier-News, the only seven day paper in the state and the paper which carries the largest amount of classified advertising. The Courier-News covers North Dakota like a blanket, reaching all parts of the state the day of publication; it is the paper to use in order to get results. Rates: One cent per word first insertion; one-half cent per word succeeding insertions; fifty cents per line per month. Address: The Courier-News, Fargo, N. D. 20-12

ADVERTISERS—In placing your ad, three things must be considered—circulation, class of readers and price. The Reporter gives you ad greater measure of service for less money than any other newspaper in northern Iowa. The Reporter is read by 30,000 people every issue. Advertising rates one-half cent a word, each insertion. Cash with order. Reporter, Waterloo, Iowa. 46-12
